JAMES C. PALMER COMMITS SUICIDE AS GIRL LOOKS ON

Roswell Road Home of Eunice Foster, 17, Scene of Tragic Climax of Lovers' Quarrel; Shotgun Load Enters Heart.

BROTHER OF GIRL WITNESSES DEATH

Two Helpless as Jilted Youth Makes Final, Fantastic Gesture; No Inquest Will Be Held.

Told in sharp terms by his 17-year-old sweetheart to leave her home and not return, James C. Palmer, 18, walked out of the living room of Eunice Foster's home on Roswell road early Monday night, disappointed and bitter. On the sofa behind him were trinkets he had given her: a vase or two, articles of clothing.

A moment later young Palmer re-entered the room. He carried a .12-gauge shotgun, single-barrel, and his thought was not of the trinkets. Resolutely, with Eunice Foster watching him but unable to raise her voice, he deliberately pressed the muzzle against his heart, leaned over, pulled the trigger. He died instantly.

Such was the picture of the suicide pieced together by Fulton county policemen who were called to the Foster home shortly after 7:30 o'clock. The body of the youth was taken to Buckhead and later removed to Williams' Funeral Home. Eunice, hysterical, gave few details.

Young Palmer, the police learned, had been going with the girl for several months. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Palmer, who reside on Roswell road about four miles beyond Buckhead. The Foster home is about two miles distant. His father is employed by the county.

The policemen said Eunice told them that when Palmer called on her at about 7 o'clock she told him she did not want to see him again. She had gathered together his presents and as an earnest of her determination offered them to him. They quarreled. He stalked out, saying he would "go out of her life forever."

A brother of the Foster girl entered the room in time to witness the fantastic final gesture. He could not prevent it. Six Fulton county policemen investigated but at a late hour could give the name of the girl's brother, or of her parents; or could say whether young Palmer walked to the residence or drove in a car.

Coroner Donohoe was informed of the suicide. He said that in view of the fact that there were witnesses, an inquest would not be necessary. The policemen understood the body was taken to the office of a doctor at Buckhead and a death certificate filled out there, but they were not certain which doctor acted.

The youth is survived by his parents, two sisters, Edith and Mary Palmer; two brothers, Hoyt and Virgil Palmer, and his grandparents, Mrs. Dora Palmer and Mrs. Pathenia Barber.

Funeral services for the youth will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Mt. Zion church, near Dallas, Ga. The Rev. L. W. Harris will conduct the service and interment will be in the churchyard.

Atlantans Pay Tribute To Roosevelt Tonight

Three Brilliant Birthday Balls To Be Held Here, 6,000 Throughout Nation—President Speaks at 10:20 P. M.

Atlantans attending the three big Roosevelt birthday balls for the benefit of the Warm Springs Foundation tonight will hear the president at 10:30 o'clock in a nation-wide radio broadcast express his appreciation to all those joining in making the nearly 6,000 balls a spontaneous means of raising millions of dollars for the infantile paralysis sufferers at Warm Springs.

Atlanta's participation in the nationwide event will include parties at Peachtree Gardens, the Shrine mosque and the Shiloh Club, where floor shows and peppy orchestras will perform for those guests who pay $1.50 a couple to attend the birthday balls. Proceeds of the parties will go to the Warm Springs Foundation.

President Roosevelt's personal thanks to the friends who participate in tonight's series of celebrations of his birthday will be expressed over the radio from the White House. The president himself will observe the birthday as he has for the last 13 years at a party with men who were associated with him in his 1920 vice-presidential campaign.

The White House said that the president has been deluged with letters, greetings and offerings and the only way he could make personal acknowledgment is by a talk over the air.

Believes Cure in Sight. The president has the confident belief that medical science will be able to do for the victims of infantile paralysis what it already has done to abate tuberculosis, eliminate yellow fever and to restrict the ravages of many other human ills. This was announced Monday by Stephen T. Early, secretary to the president.

Special arrangements are being made so that participants in the celebration throughout the country may hear the president's response. President Roosevelt will, Early said, speak as the representative of and in behalf of the crippled children of the nation, particularly those stricken with infantile paralysis who will be

3 PLANS OFFERED FOR RUM CONTROL

House Body Will Seek To Unify Views on Bootlegging Problem.

By CECIL B. DICKSON. (Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(P)—The administration is deeply concerned over rampant bootlegging that is taking place under repeal and is somewhat at a loss as to how to approach the problem, but has submitted to leaders in congress as many as three projected bills providing for drastic liquor control regulation.

The justice department, the federal alcohol control administration and the internal revenue bureau all are urging immediate enactment of stringent legislation not only to combat the bootlegger but to protect the dry states as is provided under the twenty-first amendment.

Representatives of these agencies are to appear in a secret session tomorrow before the house judiciary committee to discuss the problem. Efforts have been made by members of congress to have the agencies get together on one piece of legislation dealing with the problem, but thus far they have failed. The matter is understood to be before Attorney-General Cummings, but he has given no indication of what he will recommend.

Referred to Judiciary Body. The matter first was taken up with Representative Oliver, democrat, Alabama, chairman of the house appropriations subcommittee, in charge of the justice department supply bill.

HUGE SEWER OBS 12 Druid Hills Burglaries Solved By 5 Arrests; $500 Loot Recovered

1,500 Men From Fulton and DeKalb Will Launch Big CWA Project; Leaders Pleased at Action.

Construction of Atlanta's new metropolitan sewer system will begin next Monday when 1,500 men from Fulton and DeKalb counties will begin the greatest CWA project thus far launched in the state, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state civil works administrator, announced Monday following a long conference with Mayor James L. Key, Chairman George Longino, of the Fulton county commission, County Commissioner C. A. Mathews, of DeKalb county, and other officials.

The great army of workers will be under the supervision of William A. Hansell, assistant chief of construction for the city of Atlanta, and R. L. MacDougall, assistant chief engineer of the CWA in charge of operations in the Atlanta area.

"It is our plan to keep the 1,500 men on the job until the task is finished," Miss Shepperson said. "Materials and equipment for the workers will be taken to the site of the five co-ordinated projects later this week so that all will be in position for a start Monday morning."

The sewer projects will cost $1,018,000, with about $225,000 being spent for materials which will be shared by the federal government and Atlanta and Fulton counties. The city has $81,000 for materials set up in the finance sheet now before council for consideration while the county commission will furnish a similar sum, part of which will be contributed in rock and gravel obtained from deposits now owned by the county.

Few Details Remain. "There are a few minor details regarding the sewer yet to be worked out," Miss Shepperson said. "However, we are going right ahead and will get started next Monday taking care of the details as we go along. I am glad that the project is to become a reality."

Chairman Longino said he was pleased that the project would get under way at once. "It is a happy day for Atlanta," the board chairman said.

Materials for the first portion of the project will be furnished by the federal government with $25,000 set aside for that purpose last week by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and by the county. The city will be without waiting for actual approval of the finance sheet, it was said, council and the mayor being in full accord on this item.

Work Will Be Assigned. Miss Shepperson said that the workers on the sewer project would be assigned later in the week. A majority of them will come from the CWA rolls in Fulton county but a portion will be furnished by DeKalb county.

U. S. Plans to Sponsor Migrations of Jobless

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(P)—Plans are being made by the federal emergency relief administration to move thousands of persons on relief to other sections as a result of the inability of communities in which they are living to supply them with work in the future.

Lawrence Westbrook of the relief administration has been employed by Harry L. Hopkins, federal administrator, to take charge of movement. Hopkins said today there were many persons in industrial communities and coal mining areas who would never be able to get jobs in the places where they now are living because of stagnation in industry.

A committee composed of Assistant Secretary Tugwell and Mordcaik Ezekiel, representing the agriculture department, and two representatives of the interior department are working with Jacob Baker, assistant civil works administrator, on plans for the movement.

12 Druid Hills Burglaries Solved By 5 Arrests; $500 Loot Recovered

Four men were being held in jail in DeKalb county, another was in custody at Newport, Tenn., and the solution of a dozen recent burglaries in Druid Hills was in the hands of police Monday as the result of the arrest last week of James Bullington, 18, of Windsor street, according to DeKalb county policemen.

Those held in addition to young Bullington are R. T. Bullington, 43, his father, Dan Deleshaw, 24, and his brother, Allen Deleshaw, 19, of 355 Orange street. Under arrest in Newport is Roy DeLoach, who probably will be sent for within the next few days, it was said.

Among homes robbed recently in Druid Hills was that of William Candler, 940 Springdale road, Young County, Ga., who said such a confession might be costly to both and added:

"I am feeling very comfortable."

Morganthau did not say a devaluation proclamation would be issued simultaneously with gold executive orders. But he agreed the government stabilization fund—to be obtained through the dollar profit on devaluation—would become available only through such action.

Morganthau said the New York Federal Reserve bank would continue to act as the treasury's agent in employing the stabilization fund just as it now acts in buying gold.

To Keep Gold. This was disclosed late today by Secretary Morganthau who also told newspapermen that the gold of the federal reserve banks, to which the measure gives the treasury title, is, for the present, to be kept in the reserve banks as depositories of the government.

Although he would not say exactly when the chief executive would take action to stop at least 40 per cent from the gold dollar, the impression prevailed that no time would be lost in bringing this about. Not until that has been done can the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, with which the administration plans to regulate the foreign value of the dollar, be established. DR. DEAN AT EASE AS JURY IS CHOSEN

State Makes No Specific Request for Death Penalty; Jurors Queried.

GREENWOOD, Miss., Jan. 29.—(P)—Smartly gowned, completely at ease, 33-year-old Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, ex-splint in children's diseases, today sat unmoved in a crowded courtroom as one prospective juror after another assured the state they would not hesitate to send her to the gallows if she should be proved guilty of murdering her friend and professional associate, Dr. John Preston Kennedy.

During the telling of preliminary jury selection at 10 o'clock, Dr. Dean, smiling occasionally at sallies between the presiding judge and veniremen, she had never a glance for the jammed court behind her, where sat a host of her friends and acquaintances, and scores of the frankly curious attracted from throughout the Mississippi delta to hear the details of one of the state's strangest murder cases.

The state will attempt to prove that Dr. Kennedy had made plans to reveal his divorced wife, who had gone to Panama to await his arrival, Mrs. Kennedy is in Greenwood for Dr.

Secretary Morganthau Indicates Discussions With British Representatives Are Likely To Be Started Next Week.

TREASURY READY TO HANDLE FUND

Reserve Banks to Keep Metal, Merely Transferring Title to United States Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(P)—An early start in currency discussions with Great Britain was indicated today by Secretary Morganthau, who said the treasury is already equipped to operate the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund provided in President Roosevelt's money bill.

We are not discussing anything with Great Britain now," Morganthau said, "but if you ask me that again next week I won't answer."

Morganthau said a stack of executive orders governing the nation's gold supply, to which the government owns complete title when Mr. Roosevelt signs the money bill, probably tomorrow, were under preparation and would be ready for issuance immediately upon signing of the bill.

"War" Costly. Asked whether he anticipated a currency war with Great Britain, Morganthau laughed and said such a conflict "might be costly" to both and added:

"I am feeling very comfortable."

Morganthau did not say a devaluation proclamation would be issued simultaneously with gold executive orders. But he agreed the government stabilization fund—to be obtained through the dollar profit on devaluation—would become available only through such action.

New Compensation Act. Is Praised by Hines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(P)—Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, told a senate appropriations subcommittee today that 486,326 veterans and dependents had been taken off the non-service rolls under the economy act.

He said, however, that the principles of the revised act and regulations issued under it were "sound and should be continued."

Appearing on proposals to amend the economy sections of the independent offices bill in the interest of former soldiers, Hines said that veterans undoubtedly would be restored by review boards and President Roosevelt wanted studies continued to eliminate inequalities.

Hines showed 388,102 non-service, World War disability cases were taken off the rolls between June 30 and October 31, 1933. The average monthly payments to the non-service disabled, however, increased between those dates from $13.35 to $23.83.

Auto Tag Deadline Extended to Feb. 15

Governor Eugene Talmadge Monday extended the time for purchasing automobile license tags until February 15. Without the extension, motor car owners would have had to pay a penalty of $1.00 each for failure to buy tags before February 1.

Marcus P. McWhorter, director of the motor vehicle division of the state department of revenue, said Monday that 175,000 of the 350,000 auto, truck and bus owners in the state had bought tags.

Decatur Recall Paper Reaches Board Friday

Advocates of a recall election in Decatur, through which a number of citizens seek the recall of City Commissioners R. C. Henderson and George W. Woods, announced Monday night that 962 names had been signed to a recall petition, or more than 200 in excess of the number required.

Meeting at the home of William Schley Howard, a leader in the recall movement, the leaders announced the petition would be presented to the city commissioners at a commission meeting Friday night.

Atlanta in Grip of Winter; Drop to 10 Forecast Today

Caught totally unprepared, Atlantans hurried about Monday morning trying to save automobile motors in which the anti-freeze had been allowed to evaporate, getting in rush orders for fuel, and preparing against the harder freeze promised for this morning.
Observer Mindling said that the cold wave will break some time today, but it will be a relief.

FUND FOR FARM LOANS IS CUT TO $45,000,000

Committee and Myers Agree on Reduction From $100,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(P)—A drop from $100,000,000 to $45,000,000 in the amount to be sought for crop production loans next year was agreed upon today between Chairman Smith, of the senate agriculture committee, and W. L. Myers, governor of the farm credit administration. The larger amount was opposed by the administration. Although Governor Myers said he was without authority to agree to any proposal, the 25 senators and representatives attending the conference gave their support to the Smith plan. They also agreed that the interest rate should be five and one-half per cent, the same as last year, with an inspection fee of 50 cents for each loan application examined. Individual loans would be limited to $250, with the administration having authority to allow larger individual loans when it can be shown that $250 is not sufficient.

Smith agreed to scale down the loan fund after Governor Myers had pointed out that payment under the acreage reduction program being carried out for various crops would give many farmers a source of cash they lacked last year.

Myers also reported that of the $90,000,000 appropriated for crop production loans last year only $37,000,000 had been lent.

TOUHY RENTAL BARED BY EX-BEER DRIVER

Former Policeman Received $1,000 After Factor Kidnaping—Prosecutor.

CRIMINAL COURTS BUILDING, CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(P)—One of Roger Touhy's former beer truck drivers aided today in rounding out the prosecution's case against Touhy and three others on charges of kidnaping John Factor.

Their testimony cast considerable light on the jovial, carefree life of beer gangsters, of the economic plight that came to them with the legalization of beer, and of the desperate, internecine machine-gun warfare that flared out between the Touhys and the Capone syndicate.

It was warfare, testified W. A. (Buck) Henrichsen, policeman who turned beer runner, that put Roger Touhy in deadly fear that his three small children might be kidnapped or killed, that brought guns and guards for the first time to his thriving beer business.

The most important part of Henrichsen's testimony from the prosecution's viewpoint was an admission by the former policeman that he rented at Touhy's behest a house in suburban Glenview, where Factor claimed he was held during part of his 12 days' imprisonment, which terminated upon payment of $70,000 in $10 and $20 bills.

Further, Prosecutor Wilbert Crowley brought out, Touhy handed Henrichsen $1,000 in currency of those denominations two days after Factor had been released.

CALIFORNIA 'RADICALS' DETAINED BY MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 29.—(P)—Six Californians were detained at police headquarters here today on technical charges of vagrancy. Their spokesman, who said he was John R. Burns, 34, San Francisco, denied Police Chief Will D. Lee's description of the group as radicals.

Chief Lee said the men were picked up at a tourist camp and that they were en route to Washington to "try to tell how the government ought to be run."

Burns said the party was en route to Washington to petition California's senators to work for an extension of CWA allotments beyond May 1 in order that CWA jobs in that section may not be abolished.

Little Miss Anna Burrell displays the very latest in what a young lady should wear while E. P. Minogue, vice president and general manager of the Southeastern Merchandising Market, which opened here yesterday, and Governor Eugene Talmadge look on admiringly.

The Southeastern Merchandising Market, the only style mart in the south, formally opened in its quarters in the Louisville building on West Peachtree street Monday afternoon.

Several hundred merchants attended the opening and sales of merchandise were made on the opening day. Governor Eugene Talmadge, Mayor James L. Key, Wiley L. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and E. P. Minogue, vice president and general manager of the market, made talks preceding the style show.

Governor Talmadge commented in the fact that the merchants of the southeast annually spent $480,000,000 in New York for dress goods. If only a tenth of that amount could be diverted to Atlanta, he added, the enterprise would be worth while.

In welcoming the visitors, Mayor Key pointed out that Atlanta was more liberal-minded than it used to be and that visiting merchants would not only be afforded a convenient and diversified market, but would also be enabled to enjoy themselves while here.

Mr. Moore paid a tribute to the organizing ability of W. R. C. Smith, one of the original organizers of the market, and pledged the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Minogue expressed his appreciation of the response the merchants had already made to the enterprise.

Young women and children then modeled the new styles in dresses and millinery which were shown simultaneously with their introduction in the eastern style centers. Enrico Leide supplied the music at the opening.

Two floors of the building were filled with booths containing the displays of manufacturers. Booths are being installed on other floors and these will be filled with exhibits also. The market will be open daily. Already 50 people have been employed to man it and as many more are expected to be put on as the market's operation expands.

Each booth has the name of the manufacturer making the exhibit. The fourth floor shows dresses, hand bags, jewelry and children's ware. The fifth floor contains men's and boys' clothing.

Visiting merchants expressed themselves as delighted with the displays. They sat through the fashion show and afterwards compared the modeled goods with the exhibits of the various makers.

The booths are in charge of trained salesmen who show the visitors the samples and take their orders for stocks.

Formerly these merchants made trips to New York to buy their stocks. Now they may see the same displays simultaneously with their showing in New York and not some four weeks later. They are saved the expense of the trip.

Atlanta is within a night's ride of the most distant southern points and is considered ideally located for such a market. It is planned eventually to make Atlanta a style center equal in importance to other centers of this type.

The style shows will be held from time to time but the displays will be shown daily.

Among Monday's visitors were local merchants and several manufacturers. Some of the exhibitors sent representatives down for the opening, although their booths will be in charge of market employees.

W. R. C. Smith was master of ceremonies at the opening and introduced the speakers. He reviewed briefly the organization of the market and the co-operation of leading business-men.

The market is designed not only to benefit the dress goods trade, but its sponsors point out, will result in bringing many people to Atlanta. All lines of business will be helped, they noted. The market has also given employment not only to the regular personnel which operates it, but also a large force of workmen who have been busy installing the booths and making other changes.

The market started out with 50 leases of space to manufacturers and wholesalers and this list is expected to be increased steadily as the value of the project is demonstrated. Ira Stone is president of the market.

AB WALKER RECEIVES EXTORTIONIST LETTER

GREENSBORO, N. C., Jan. 29.—(P)—Federal and county officers today were investigating an attempt to extort $1,500 from Ab Walker, 29-year-old Winston-Salem boy and friend of the late Smith Reynolds.

Walker received a threatening note last week demanding that he put the money near a railway coal chute in Pomona, a Greensboro suburb, by 9:30 p. m. Saturday. The letter was turned over to officers and federal agents and deputies from Sheriff Joe S. Phipps' office kept watch at the scene, but there were no developments.

ELECTRIC RATE CUT IS RESTORED IN CUBA

HAVANA, Jan. 29.—(P)—President Mendieta signed a decree today annulling a reduction in electric rates put into effect by former President Grau San Martin.

The new measure does not affect the American-owned Cuban Electric Company and is applicable only to small plants in the interior which, "according to government reports, cannot operate at reduced rates," a presidential palace spokesman announced.

SON SLAYS MOTHER AFTER ROW OVER AUTO

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., Jan. 29.—(P)—A family row over the use of an automobile today brought death to Mrs. W. T. Smith, 47-year-old mother of seven children, and her 28-year-old son, Clyde, was jailed charged with firing the fatal shotgun charge.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. Griffin, who investigated the shooting, said Clyde fired through the front door after he and his father had fought when the latter refused the son the use of the family car.

The officer said the boy had been badly beaten, and that the shot apparently was intended for the father instead of the mother.

"ALL-BRAN WILL ALWAYS BE A PART OF MY DIET"

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Constipation

If you suffer from constipation, read this fine letter:

"I have been troubled for years with constipation. During this time, I have tried almost every known remedy. Then some one recommended eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and the proper results followed immediately.

"Since eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN each morning, there has been a general improvement in my health without the ill effects that I formerly experienced when taking laxatives. Hereafter, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will always be a part of my diet."—Mr. E. G. Himes, 1201 E. 7th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

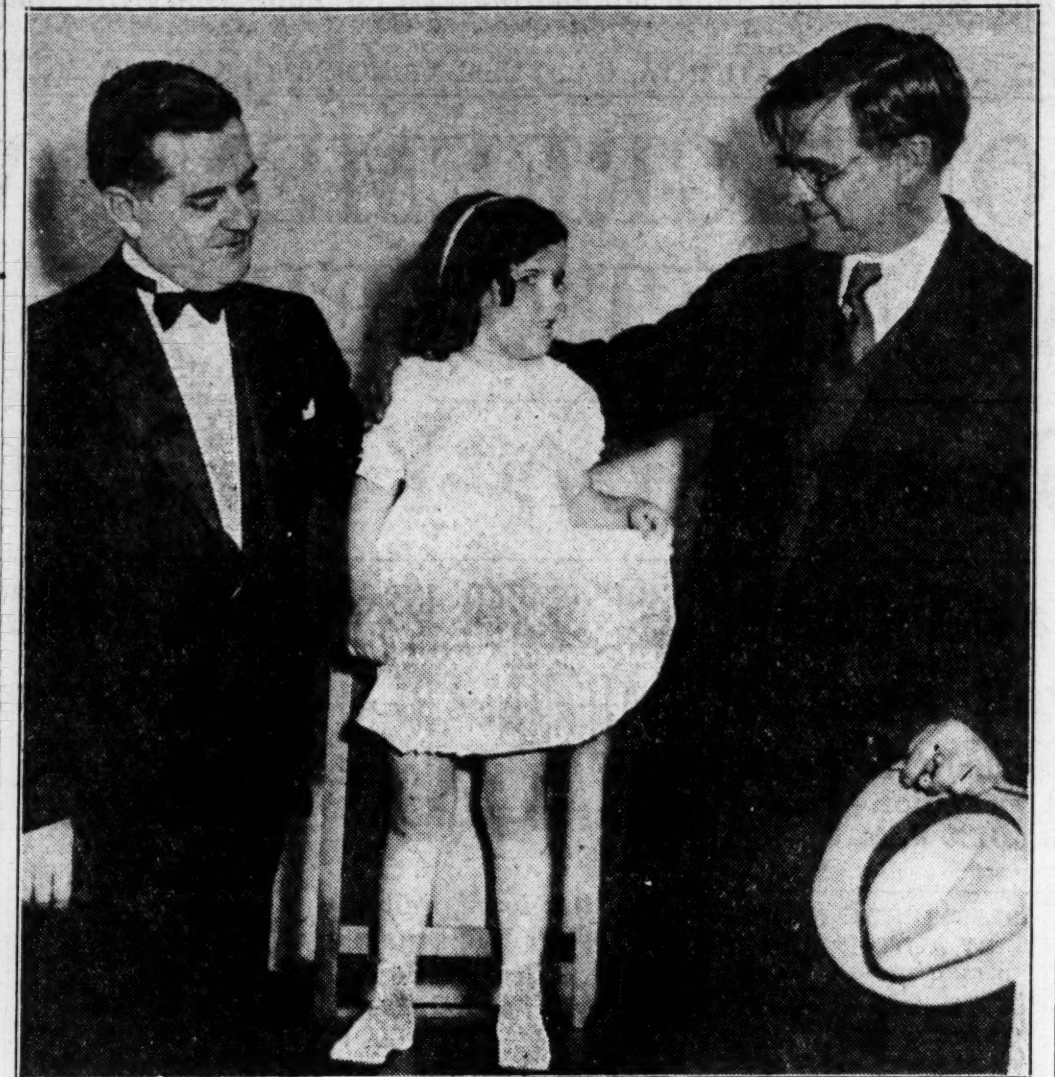

Research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this "cereal way" safer than risking patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to relieve ordinary constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Be sure to ask for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and E. P. Minogue, vice president and general manager of the market, made talks preceding the style show.

Governor Talmadge commented in the fact that the merchants of the southeast annually spent $480,000,000 in New York for dress goods. If only a tenth of that amount could be diverted to Atlanta, he added, the enterprise would be worth while.

In welcoming the visitors, Mayor Key pointed out that Atlanta was more liberal-minded than it used to be and that visiting merchants would not only be afforded a convenient and diversified market, but would also be enabled to enjoy themselves while here.

Mr. Moore paid a tribute to the organizing ability of W. R. C. Smith, one of the original organizers of the market, and pledged the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Minogue expressed his appreciation of the response the merchants had already made to the enterprise.

Young women and children then modeled the new styles in dresses and millinery which were shown simultaneously with their introduction in the eastern style centers. Enrico Leide supplied the music at the opening.

Two floors of the building were filled with booths containing the displays of manufacturers. Booths are being installed on other floors and these will be filled with exhibits also. The market will be open daily. Already 50 people have been employed to man it and as many more are expected to be put on as the market's operation expands.

Each booth has the name of the manufacturer making the exhibit. The fourth floor shows dresses, hand bags, jewelry and children's ware. The fifth floor contains men's and boys' clothing.

Visiting merchants expressed themselves as delighted with the displays. They sat through the fashion show and afterwards compared the modeled goods with the exhibits of the various makers.

The booths are in charge of trained salesmen who show the visitors the samples and take their orders for stocks.

Formerly these merchants made trips to New York to buy their stocks. Now they may see the same displays simultaneously with their showing in New York and not some four weeks later. They are saved the expense of the trip.

Atlanta is within a night's ride of the most distant southern points and is considered ideally located for such a market. It is planned eventually to make Atlanta a style center equal in importance to other centers of this type.

The style shows will be held from time to time but the displays will be shown daily.

Among Monday's visitors were local merchants and several manufacturers. Some of the exhibitors sent representatives down for the opening, although their booths will be in charge of market employees.

W. R. C. Smith was master of ceremonies at the opening and introduced the speakers. He reviewed briefly the organization of the market and the co-operation of leading business-men.

The market is designed not only to benefit the dress goods trade, but its sponsors point out, will result in bringing many people to Atlanta. All lines of business will be helped, they noted. The market has also given employment not only to the regular personnel which operates it, but also a large force of workmen who have been busy installing the booths and making other changes.

The market started out with 50 leases of space to manufacturers and wholesalers and this list is expected to be increased steadily as the value of the project is demonstrated. Ira Stone is president of the market.

PUBLIC NOTIFIED OF KING'S WEDDING IN IRAQ LAST WEEK

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Jan. 29.—(P)—The public received notice for the first time today that last week's marriage ceremonies uniting Iraq's young King Ghazi and Princess Aliya went off without a hitch.

It came in the form of a government proclamation which expressed the hope that the union proves "a happy one, graced with many children."

While King Ghazi, who at 22 succeeded his father, the late King Feisal, was entertaining statesmen at the marriage banquet at the royal court a mile from the palace, January 25, the new queen drove after dark in a closed car from her father's home to the palace, it was learned today.

The banquet over, the guests—after an old Moslem custom—accompanying the king to the door of the palace where they left him alone to join his bride.

Strange as the custom may seem in other parts of the world, the young couple had not seen each other since they were children until their wedding day.

Discussion of finances, including war debts, and a possible tariff war with France, also came up on the floor of common as parliament opened a vital session.

After diplomatic exchanges with France and Germany, the foreign secretary said, the government had decided the time was ripe to take a public stand on "the present situation, the gravity of which must be apparent to every thoughtful mind."

Great Britain, said Leslie Hore-De-Lisha, financial secretary to the treasury, is ready to resume negotiations on the war debts question "whenever, after consultation with the president of the United States, it may appear that this can usefully be done."

To return to the gold standard at this time, the secretary added, would be "inappropriate."

BURLINGTON ROUTE TO CUT DISTANCE BETWEEN OCEANS

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(P)—The Burlington railroad will pioneer a new short cut to the Pacific coast next June by blazing a new trail across 40 miles of the Rockies back of Denver.

When a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train plunges through the Moffat tunnel June 1 and then breaks the trail of the new route, the Burlington becomes a transcontinental road, and Denver for the first time will be on the main line of a direct route from Chicago to California.

The Burlington announced today that beginning June 1 its crack Chicago-to-Denver train, the Aristocrat, will operate as a through train to San Francisco.

At the same time the old route from Denver to Colorado Springs and west over the Denver & Rio Grande Western to the Royal Gorge will continue in use.

Schedules have not been announced, but the Burlington said its new line would bring drastic reductions in running time to California, with morning and evening departures from Chicago using old and new routes.

AB WALKER RECEIVES EXTORTIONIST LETTER

GREENSBORO, N. C., Jan. 29.—(P)—Federal and county officers today were investigating an attempt to extort $1,500 from Ab Walker, 29-year-old Winston-Salem boy and friend of the late Smith Reynolds.

Walker received a threatening note last week demanding that he put the money near a railway coal chute in Pomona, a Greensboro suburb, by 9:30 p. m. Saturday. The letter was turned over to officers and federal agents and deputies from Sheriff Joe S. Phipps' office kept watch at the scene, but there were no developments.

ELECTRIC RATE CUT IS RESTORED IN CUBA

HAVANA, Jan. 29.—(P)—President Mendieta signed a decree today annulling a reduction in electric rates put into effect by former President Grau San Martin.

The new measure does not affect the American-owned Cuban Electric Company and is applicable only to small plants in the interior which, "according to government reports, cannot operate at reduced rates," a presidential palace spokesman announced.

SON SLAYS MOTHER AFTER ROW OVER AUTO

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., Jan. 29.—(P)—A family row over the use of an automobile today brought death to Mrs. W. T. Smith, 47-year-old mother of seven children, and her 28-year-old son, Clyde, was jailed charged with firing the fatal shotgun charge.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. Griffin, who investigated the shooting, said Clyde fired through the front door after he and his father had fought when the latter refused the son the use of the family car.

The officer said the boy had been badly beaten, and that the shot apparently was intended for the father instead of the mother.

If you suffer from constipation, read this fine letter:

"Since eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN each morning, there has been a general improvement in my health without the ill effects that I formerly experienced when taking laxatives. Hereafter, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will always be a part of my diet."—Mr. E. G. Himes, 1201 E. 7th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this "cereal way" safer than risking patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to relieve ordinary constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Be sure to ask for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BRITAIN PROMISES ARMS PACT HELP

Secret Memorandum Sent to Interested Powers Looking to Accord.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(P)—Great Britain is determined "to make further positive contribution so far as lies in its power to promote a disarmament agreement, Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the opening session of the house of commons today.

Britain's stand on the disarmament tangle has been expressed in a formal memorandum sent to interested governments and will be made public when they have had opportunity to study the document, Sir John explained, possibly within a few days.

Discussion of finances, including war debts, and a possible tariff war with France, also came up on the floor of common as parliament opened a vital session.

After diplomatic exchanges with France and Germany, the foreign secretary said, the government had decided the time was ripe to take a public stand on "the present situation, the gravity of which must be apparent to every thoughtful mind."

NEW AIR STRENGTH SOUGHT FOR NAVY

House Move Looks to Cre- ation of Junior Aviation Reserve.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—More planes for the navy and a method of training youthful pilots for the nation's air force were put forward in the house today as separate phases of the sudden drive to build up the country's defensive works.

The house naval committee took the first step toward doubling the navy's number of fighting planes at the same time that Speaker Rainey was telling an anti-war delegation that he hoped there would be no war this spring between Russia and Japan, but that both countries were building up their armament.

Chairman McNair, of the house military committee, meanwhile, introduced a bill to authorize creation of a junior air corps reserve as a civilian component of the army. In it, all physically sound youths between 18 and 21 could obtain army training to qualify them as pilots.

Peaceful Relations.

Rainey, who has visited Russia and advocated recognition of the soviet for years, said he thought the new relations between the United States and that country "contributed more to world peace than any other development in recent years."

He told the anti-war delegation flatly that he was not for a program which would "disband our army and navy and turn over the CCC to civilians."

"To do so," he added, "would greatly encourage Japan in her moves toward Russia. I hope there won't be a war between Japan and Russia this spring, but Russia has 800,000 men in her standing army and is turning out 25 airplanes a day, while Japan has refused to accept any non-aggression pact."

He predicted the house would pass tomorrow the Vinson treaty navy bill with an authorization for the present to order the construction of all airplanes needed by the modernized fleet.

Backed by Administration.

Chairman Vinson of the naval committee held no doubts about senate approval of the same bill, telling newspapermen "the administration seems to have plenty of support over there, and that bill has 'administrative' written all over it."

Vinson's bill would let the president order the construction of enough ships, primarily destroyers and submarines, to replace the vessels which will be too old for efficient war service when the London treaty expires on December 31, 1936.

The naval committee voted unanimously today to insert in that bill an amendment to let the president have blanket authority to see to it that the airplanes necessary for a modern fleet are built.

Approved by Douglas.

Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, told the committee the airplane program had the approval of the director of the budget. He and Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the navy's aeronautics bureau, estimated that it would take 1,184 new airplanes costing about $35,000,000 to equip the complete treaty fleet.

With the addition of these, the navy would have 2,184 "serviceable" airplanes, plus some "unservicable" in reserve which could be used in an emergency.

Fifty-four warships now are under construction with $238,000,000 allotted from the public works fund. Standley and King said it would require 650 more airplanes for these ships.

The remainder of the additional 1,184, they added, would give a complete aviation complement to the fleet, including the 102 ships costing around $384,000,000 which may be constructed under Vinson's bill.

RIDGEFIELD, Wash.—(UP)—Joy Peko, Ridgefield rancher, shipped a 9-year-old Jersey cow to Port and stockyard and received a check for 99 cents after deducting expenses connected with the transaction. The 810-pound cow brought $4.05. Carriage cost $2 and yardage $1.06, leaving Peko 99 cents.

DANUBIANS AGREE ON WHEAT QUOTAS

Danger of Russian Dump- ing Apparently Remov- ed, Conference Learns.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Removal of any danger of Russian dumping and an agreement between Hungary and other Danubian countries who have disputed division of their allotted quota appeared assured today at the close of the opening session of the third meeting of the international advisory wheat committee.

Russia's shipping season is virtually over, it was disclosed, and she had not exported more than 25,000,000 bushels.

Indications were that the Danubians had already agreed to peace terms, but the Russian quota, it was learned authoritatively, was not discussed.

Delegates of the big four—the United States, Argentina, Canada and Australia—were convinced that Russian adherence to an international export quota plan would be an anti-climax now, as she is unlikely to reduce her offer to export twice the amount allotted her—37,000,000 bushels.

A feeling that the American monetary bill will have a beneficial effect on world prices was evidenced among delegates. The United States appeared definitely to be the bright spot in the bleak panorama because of reduced crops and what were interpreted as inflationary tendencies.

LONG ILLNESS FATAL

Emmett H. Babb, 77 years of age, widely known in the contracting business, died at a private hospital Monday after a long illness. He resided at 1740 Gordon street, S. W.

Mr. Babb was associated with the Donaldson & Pearson Company for several years before failing health brought about his retirement from active business. He is survived by his wife; three sons, Carl B. Babb, who is rural circulation manager for the Atlanta Journal, and Clyde C. Babb, also of Atlanta, and Willis W. Babb, of Brevard, N. C.; a brother, W. O. Babb, of Atlanta, and six grandchildren, Mrs. Charles Merck, Mrs. Arch Attridge, C. B. Babb Jr., Miss Peggy Babb and Miss Patsy Babb, and Willis W. Babb Jr.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Avtry & Lowndes.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Mountain View Baptist church for J. W. Davis, 89, Confederate veteran and retired farmer, who died Monday morning at his residence in Stone Mountain.

Mr. Davis had been making his home in Stone Mountain since 1895 and was well known throughout that section. He served with distinction throughout the Civil War and rose to the rank of sergeant in the Confederate army. The Rev. T. L. Skelton and the Rev. J. B. Spivey will officiate. Burial will be in Mountain View cemetery.

A. S. Turner, funeral director, will be in charge.

county are now completing a number of school and road projects while those in DeKalb are on various assignments.

"One thing must be certain," Miss Shepperson said, "and that is that the sewer project will not bring any more jobs to Fulton and DeKalb counties, which already have their full quotas at work. We will merely transfer the workers from existing rolls and use only those who have been on tasks that are practically completed."

Key Praises CWA Head.

Key praised Miss Shepperson for her fine co-operation, and sympathy with the local problem, and predicted rapid progress of the work.

"Miss Shepperson and her organization have again demonstrated their efficiency," Key said. "Her fine spirit of co-operation, her sympathy for our local problem, and the high regard high federal officials in Washington have for her views on Georgia problems, have gained for us this consideration. We are indebted to her and to her colleagues for this demonstration of confidence."

Clark Donaldson, chief of construction, and Hansell also expressed gratification when they learned work is about to proceed. They pointed out again that no public improvement for metropolitan Atlanta is of such vital importance.

operations of the fund. However, they apparently are not to be given the satisfaction of knowing just whose advice is followed for, said Morgenstern, probably no one but the president and himself will have an exact knowledge of what is being done.

Costly to Both.

As to the effect of a currency war with Great Britain, Morgenstern gave it as his opinion that such a conflict would be "very costly."

"To us or to Great Britain?" he was asked.

"To both," was his response.

The department head said that a "whole flock" of executive orders were in preparation, covering all the various changes to be made, regarding the new mint price of gold and the numerous other factors entering into the situation.

Treasury purchases of government bonds last week totaled $2,800,000, he said, consisting almost entirely of investments of surplus funds of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The figure was unusually small—in past weeks it has run as high as $44,000,000—and Morgenstern said the only significance to be attached to this was that it showed what the "natural market" for government bonds was. They held firm throughout the week, absorbing at the same time new issues totaling a billion dollars.

Congressional action on the monetary bill was completed today, but technicalities of legislative procedure kept the measure from going to the president.

Vice President Garner has yet to sign the measure, and he may do so only when the senate is in session. It was in recess today. He will sign shortly after noon tomorrow, and the bill will then be hastened to the White House.

Grist From Washington Mills

DAY IN WASHINGTON.

By The Associated Press.

The relief administration disclosed plans to move thousands of families away from communities which no longer have work for them.

Mrs. Roosevelt indicated wine would be served, hard liquors banned, at the White House.

Congress got the dollar devaluation bill ready for President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner to sign.

Postmaster-General Farley was summoned to testify before the senate mail investigating committee.

Secretary Wallace proposed $250,000,000 for dairy aid, and federal help also for cattlemen.

Farm Administrator Davis said compulsory control of wheat production might be tried if acreage-cutting growers want it.

Enlistment of 5,000 youths in a junior air corps was proposed in the house.

House committee men recommended President Roosevelt be empowered to provide 1,184 new airplanes for the navy.

The veterans' administration said 489,924 veterans and dependents had been taken off compensation rolls under the economy act.

Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, predicted senate passage of the Johnson bill to outlaw future securities issues of debt-defaulting nations.

Supporters of the crop production loan bill agreed it could be cut from $100,000,000 to $45,000,000.

The house barred both Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp and J. Y. Sanders Jr., Louisiana election contestants.

Hurt Bondholder Sues For Receivership Fund

Asking a judgment for the benefit of bondholders for all amounts expended for receivership of the Hurt building, John D. Snyder, holder of $3,000 of the building bonds, filed suit in superior court Monday.

Snyder charges that the Citizens & Southern National bank has no authority as trustee and asks that the foreclosure suit pending be set aside and that the court appoint a successor-trustee to the old Atlanta Trust Company, the petitioner stating that the Citizens & Southern bank assumed the trusteeship without authority when it took over the affairs of the trust company.

The filing of Snyder's suit produces another tangle in the web of litigation centering about the Hurt building. In a recent decision Judge E. E. Pomeroy refused to allow the Atlanta bondholders' committee to sell $1,000,000 of the bonds at 55 cents on the dollar. Teir Corporation, the proposed purchaser, is named as a defendant in Snyder's suit, which is also brought against Atlanta Trust Company, Citizens & Southern National bank, Atlanta Realty Corporation and Hurt Building Corporation. Attorney Roy Drennan represents Snyder.

PLANS TO STIMULATE HOME LOANS OUTLINED

Administration plans to stimulate some home plans and modernization of building through the federal home loan bank system were outlined Monday by John H. Fahey, chairman of the system's board. Fahey announced legislation would be sought at this session to furnish more funds for such purposes.

The legislation would make it possible for the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the emergency unit which is taking over mortgages of distressed homes, to lend additional funds for modernization.

SECOND DIVISION MEDAL AWARDED THREE GENERALS

President Roosevelt presented the Second division medal to the three generals of the AEF group in the World War—Omar Bundy, James G. Harbord and John A. Lejeune.

In handing out the medals bearing the star and Indian head insignia of the division, he told the retired generals that he regarded the second division as his own. The medals under Mr. Roosevelt as assistant secretary of the navy fought with that division and he inspected them in France.

WILD LIFE STUDY APPROVED BY HOUSE

The house Monday adopted a resolution authorizing a congressional investigation into wild life conservation. It does not have to go to the senate. The resolution creates a committee of 15 house members authorized to inquire into bird refuges in the Mississippi valley, and all other phases of wild life with a view to making recommendations to congress for legislation for replacement and protection of wild animal, aquatic and bird life.

Optimism Reasserted Among Bremer's Kin

ST. PAUL, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The 25th hour passed at 2:30 p. m., central standard time, today without the Bremer family said, any further word from the kidnappers of Edward G. Bremer, abducted for $200,000 ransom almost two weeks ago.

Federal operatives planned to go over the ground in the vicinity of where the banker's blood-stained automobile was found in an outlying residential district shortly after his abduction as Adolph Bremer, his father, exhibited what friends said was a more cheerful mood.

His reported optimism was reflected by other members of the family and by Walter Magee, wealthy contractor, named contact man in the original ransom note found by Dr. Bremer was seized. Magee expressed belief the elder Bremer's latest appeal for return of his son should "bring results soon."

Three Armed Bandits Rob Druggist of $166

Three armed white youths, one of whom was positively identified by their victim as Charlie Gentle, 27, held up two employees of the Hemphill pharmacy at Hemphill avenue and Tenth street at 10 o'clock Monday night and robbed them of $166.

Dr. E. O. McCleskey, the druggist, told the police that the man he recognized as Gentle entered with two other men and said, "Well, doc, we'll give you something to talk about out here." McCleskey said the men pointed pistols at him and J. O. Mitchell, clerk, and took $150 from the cash register, $5 from him and $11 from Mitchell. The men fled in an automobile.

Atlanta Keeps Pace In Gain in Clearings

Tremendous gains in bank clearings, placing this city in alternately first and second place during the last several weeks, are being maintained by Atlanta, the figures released Monday by Dun & Bradstreet, revealed. Atlanta, with a gain of 43.8 per cent over the same period of 1933, took second place among the principal cities of the nation for increases in clearings for the week of January 24.

Omaha, with 62.1 per cent, was first, and Portland, with 51.1 per cent, was third. The increase shown by New York city was 9 per cent, and the national average was 9.7 per cent. Atlanta's clearings for the last four months have shown gains ranging from 0.8 per cent to 11.7 per cent. The improvement for the last week was well distributed throughout the entire list, it was said.

Train Hits School Bus Injuring Ten Children

SPRINGDALE, N. Y., Jan. 29.—(AP)—A freight train struck a school bus carrying 26 children here today and 10 were injured, one seriously, while 16 were badly shaken up.

The bus was struck squarely in the middle, but no one was killed because the wrecked machine "jammed" on the cow catcher and was carried 500 feet, until the engineer stopped the locomotive.

Walter Kummer, driver of the bus, who was not hurt, said he had stopped his machine at the crossing, then proceeded when he did not see or hear a train. Three other school buses had just crossed the tracks, of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The engineer was quoted as saying he blew his whistle twice.

It appeared that Herriot, Chautemps, Finance Minister Georges Bonnet and Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour would not be in the new cabinet.

Herriot's friends said he was disillusioned that he was not offered premiership, especially as it was rumored he had a complete cabinet list in his pocket. He and Daladier had been cool politically for some time. In an effort to heal the breach, Daladier invited Herriot to take the ministry of war, but he refused.

However, because it was a legislative matter, Oliver referred it to Chairman Sumners, democrat, Texas, of the judiciary committee.

The justice department has urged Oliver to put the legislation on the enforcement agencies were at odds he left it should be handled by the judiciary committee and be given careful consideration.

Assistant Attorney-General John S. Hurley, in a letter to the committee, said additional legislation was needed to deal with the seizure of stills and their immediate destruction, and to provide for the seizure of automobiles, trucks, boats and airplanes carrying illegal liquor in interstate commerce or into dry states by the government for use in the enforcement of internal revenue laws.

Counterfeit Tax Seals.

He said bootleggers with large plants were making products and putting them out under labels with counterfeit stamp tax seals and that these products were finding their way into state stores and county dispensaries.

While Hurley wrote that there had been some decrease in the illicit manufacture of liquor since repeal on December 5, he said there was still a large output.

He wrote that efforts of the enforcement unit were being made to concentrate its manpower on the elimination of the illicit source of supply. He recommended that legislation be enacted to prevent bootleggers from obtaining licenses for rectifying and distilling purposes because he said they could evade the tax imposed by the federal government.

Much Different Problem.

Reminding the representatives that they must realize the situation as far as liquor is concerned "is far different from that prior to the adoption of the eighteenth amendment," the letter said:

"The country is infested with bootleg organizations that have been more than capable of furnishing the country's demand for illicit liquor under prohibition and these organizations are going to compete with the legitimate distillers if the tax imposed offers sufficient inducement."

Of the legislation suggested, one measure proposed to make it unlawful for anyone to ship liquor in interstate commerce without a license or permit from the commissioner of internal revenue and that all vehicles found transporting liquor illegally be seized.

Hurley will be among the witnesses to be heard by the committee tomorrow. Others will be Harris Williamson and W. A. Tarver, of the alcohol control administration. Attorney-General Cummings also may appear.

Farley Will Testify In Mail Probe Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The special senate mail contract investigating committee said today that Postmaster-General Farley would be among the witnesses at resumption of hearings tomorrow.

Farley recently received from Walter P. Brown, postmaster-general in the Hoover administration, certain official mail contract records which Brown said he found among his personal correspondence, but which witnesses before the committee testified had been burned on Brown's order.

SOUTH SIDE CIVIC GROUP INSTALLS NEW LEADERS

Newly-elected officers of the South Side Civic Federation were installed by James A. Mayson, city attorney, at a meeting Monday night, and further steps were taken by the civic organization and the directors in providing adequate playgrounds for children during winter months.

W. T. Harrison was installed as president for a third term, and following officers assumed their duties with him: Walter S. McNeal, honorary president; Colonel F. W. Bennett, McWhorter Miller, John L. Hines, and Mrs. Edgar Gunn vice presidents; Miss Hallie Vonderau and Henry C. Andrews, secretaries; and Louis Geffen, treasurer.

The Council of Parent-Teachers is co-operating with the federation in urging additional playgrounds for children. Mrs. Paul Akery, chairman of the recreation committee, and Mrs. Byron Matting, president of the council, reported that they were urging that certain streets in quiet zones be roped off in the afternoons in order the children might skate unmolested.

NEGRO GIVEN 30 DAYS FOR FALSE FIRE ALARM

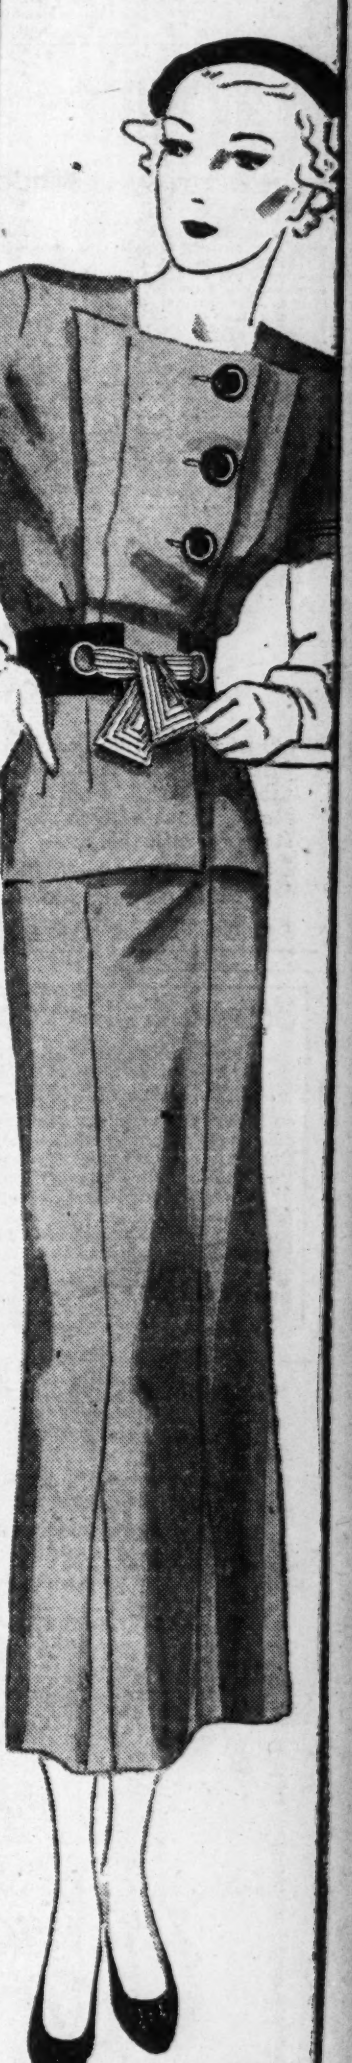

Claude Mims, 24-year-old negro, who was arrested at Armstrong and Kennedy streets Sunday night after turning in a false alarm, was fined $52 by Recorder A. W. Callaway in police court Monday afternoon. Not having $52, Mims was sent to jail to serve 30 days.

The conviction was the first in a case involving tampering with fire alarm boxes since January 16, when recorder imposed a fine of $27 on Fred F. Lester, 323 Augusta avenue, a fireman attached to Engine House No. 4. Lester pleaded guilty to turning in several false alarms on New Year's Eve.

CLAUGHTON JURY HEARS OF LOSSES

Depositors Tell of Entrusting Money to Head of Loan Company.

Witnesses were still being brought forward for the state at the close of the first day of trial of E. N. Claughton, former president of the defunct Bankers Savings & Loan Company, charged with larceny after trust and isolation of the state securities act. Claughton's case is being heard by Judge E. D. Thomas in superior court.

Robert Irving, elderly depositor of the bank, who lives at 708 Bender street, was one of the principal witnesses for the state. Irving testified that he lost about $10,000 in the loan company of which Claughton was head, stating that when he went to the institution and asked for a new pass book or other evidence of money he had on deposit, after he had been held up and robbed of his original pass book, instead of a new book Claughton gave him his personal note for about $5,000.

The prosecution's final witness as to losses was Mrs. Bertha A. Maddox, of 297 Patterson avenue, who testified that after having heard Claughton as the "Mystery Man" of the radio she became acquainted with him and that he and G. C. Conley, sentenced to 23 years in connection with the bank's dealings, called at her home and that she entrusted to Claughton $920 for investment in certain stocks, but that all she ever got for her money was a pass book.

An attempt was made to introduce evidence of Claughton's marginal trading account with Dobbs & Co., but on objection of Claughton's attorney, Frank Powers, the witness was summoned to identify the account was disqualified and the matter will be presented again today.

Claughton is being tried on three indictments for larceny after trust, but under the court's ruling evidence in connection with losses of depositors not named in the indictments is being admitted.

The prosecution is being conducted by Assistant Solicitors John Hudson and J. Walter LeCrew.

'KANGAROO' TERROR OF MOUNTAIN AREA PROVES TO BE LYNX

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 29. (AP)—A 15-hour hunt over Signal mountain ended in the killing of a large, long-legged mountain lynx believed to be the "kangaroo" that terrorized the Hamburg community near South Pittsburg, Tenn.

Four mountain hunters brought the animal here Sunday. Their hunt ended early yesterday when two of the men, Mitchell Ducker and Ed Sloan, fired buckshot into the animal as it crouched in a tree on Signal mountain about 10 miles from South Pittsburg.

The "kangaroo" was charged with slaying and partially devouring dogs, sheep and other animals and causing negroes to stay at home every night. Even as it fell from the tree with its death-wound yesterday, it killed one of the hounds in the pack that chased it.

Weighing more than 40 pounds, the animal measured 50 inches in length, had a short tail, slight tufted ears, and a spotted coat.

Its long legs indicated it might have traveled with leaping strides, giving credence to the kangaroo-like hops ascribed to the strange marauder of the Hamburg community.

GEORGE OBSERVES HIS 56TH BIRTHDAY AT SENATE DESK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, was the recipient of numerous congratulatory messages today upon reaching his 56th birthday. He celebrated the occasion by putting in a full day's work at his office, the senate not being in session.

Tonight, a group of his friends at the capital organized a small informal party to celebrate at the residence when he and Mrs. George make their home.

The Georgia senator, one of the highest ranking members of the two most important committees of the upper chamber—foreign relations and finance—is now serving his third term, having first been elected in 1922. He is also chairman of the senate privileges and elections group.

VILLARD SAYS PLANS OF HITLER MENACE

CINCINNATI, Jan. 29.—(AP)—U.S. Senator William V. Villard declared tonight that Adolf Hitler's plans for Germany constitute "a deadly menace" and warned that "Hitler is planning for war."

"I venture to assert that there is not a chancellor in Europe which takes the slightest stock in any word that Hitler may offer on the subject of peace. Talking with some of our best informed officials in Washington I found them unanimously of the belief that Germany would be completely armed in from three to five years and that the army to be led by Hitler would be far more dangerous than that of the Kaiser because it will be inspired by a fanaticism which I can only liken to that of the dervishes under the Mahdi and Khalifa in the Sudan."

DIVORCEE WOULD BALK 'KIDNAPING' OF GIRLS

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Liggett Willits asked the state department today to withhold the issuance of any passport to her divorced husband, John McGregor Willits, who she feared might attempt to sail for France with the two daughters whose custody a Chicago court has awarded her.

Last week Mrs. Willits, a member of the Liggett drugstore family, obtained a warrant charging Willits with kidnapping Jane and Anne, their two children, and also obtained from Judge Joseph Sabath a writ of attachment seeking Willits' return to face contempt charges before that court.

ILL ON CWA PROJECT, WORKER DIES AT HOME

Jacob Fletcher Dougherty, of 80 Ormond street, S. E., a CWA worker, became ill Monday while at work in Grant park and died at his residence later in the morning. He was found in the bedroom of his home by a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Cowan, and was dead when physicians arrived.

Another daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Echols, and a son, Homer Dougherty, survive. Brandon-Bond-Condole Company will announce funeral arrangements.

Exhibit of Ancient Indian Relics Owned by Georgian Opened Here

An exhibit of Indian relics said to date to the era before Columbus discovered North America, opened Monday at the Carnegie library. The relics are part of a collection owned by Charles G. Drake, of Union City, Ga., who has spent most of his life since boyhood collecting them.

Of particular interest at this time is the large necklace made of shells which Mr. Drake said came from an Indian mound in Macon. He acquired it a year ago, but could not say whether it was taken from the same mounds now being opened there. The bone beads also came from Macon.

In the collection of arrow and spear heads may be seen a group made of quartz. These, according to Mr. Drake, were found in Georgia and South Carolina, since there is more quartz in those two states than any other. The arrow heads with the square base are peculiar to the region around Albany, Ga.

The most interesting part of the exhibit, according to the owner, is the group of discords or bi-caves. These look like round flat bowls scooped out in the middle and polished to a fine smoothness. In the opinion of some authorities they were used in a game called chunke, the object being to shoot an arrow as near as possible to a rolling discord. Mr. Drake believes the finer ones, such as the large one in quartz, were used as bowls by the medicine men.

Also included in the exhibit are tomahawks and slingshots. The exhibit is in a glass showcase in the hall outside the children's department and will be on view for two or three weeks, according to Miss Mary Frances Cox, head of the department.

Great Britain's entrants are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mollison, Captain Percival Neville Stack, Flight Lieutenant J. I. T. Jones and the fliers Cathcart, Marcendale and Nelson. Atlanta 'Buzzard Mystery' Solved As Georgian Writes of Missing Pet

The mystery of "Amos" has been solved at last. There will be no more speculation about the big buzzard whose presence in the city last week puzzled many Atlantans. For "Amos" is inclined to wander from home and merely included this city in his aerial itinerary.

According to a letter received Monday from his owner, O. G. Tate, of Lula, Ga., Amos is one of a pair of pet buzzards raised by him from the time they were hatched. The other bird is named Andy. The pair are "seldom together" since Andy does not share Amos' penchant for train riding.

A part of Mr. Tate's letter gives more complete description of Amos' disposition: "Visited all homes in Lula. Follows me like a dog. Call him down from the air. Eats nothing but clean foods. Especially stays around where there is the most excitement, such as riding the box cars while switching, and sitting on houses where carpenters are working. (No wonder he liked Five Points.) Even when a person fires a flat tire he stands and watches it. Much more I could say, but I guess this is enough." Mr. Tate declared that any person in Lula can confirm his statement.

The buzzard was released near the Chattahoochee river last Thursday by Andrew Brown, of the Atlanta Humane Society, but, according to Mr. Tate, has not returned home yet. His owner says this is not unusual, however, as Amos sometimes stays gone for as long as three weeks. He also declares "I have received clippings from papers as far off as California."

BOSTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Three diamond rings valued at $8,600 were stolen by a thief who threw a heavy stone wrapped in paper through a display window at the Smith Patterson Company in downtown Boston today.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Clarence Love, president of the Penn General Casualty Company, today waived extradition and was taken to Philadelphia to face charges of alleged conversion of $108,000 of the company's funds. Love was arrested at his Englewood home last week.

$500 REWARD OFFERED FOR VIRGINIA 'GAS MAN'

FINCASTLE, Va., Jan. 29.—(AP)—A reward of $500 was offered today for the apprehension and conviction of Botetourt county's mysterious "gas man" whose latest attack with a nauseating gas on a dwelling last night was brought to the attention of the county board of supervisors.

South America Friendly To U. S., Richardson Finds

Atlantan Returns From
20,000-Mile Tour; Sees
Business Opportunities
There.

Business interests in the United States have great opportunities in South America, under the existing condition of good will, Hugh Richardson, Atlanta real estate developer, said Monday following his return from a 20,000-mile tour of the continent. Richardson, who made a complete circuit of South America, said the United States today enjoys the good will of the Latin American republics unlike anything that has ever existed, and the eyes of all the South Americans are upon our nation and our great president, Mr. Richardson said. "Secretary of State Cordell Hull has done a great deal to bring about this friendly feeling. We heard his 'Good Neighbor' speech at Montevideo during the Pan-American congress's meeting.

"After visiting those countries and getting the reactions of their peoples, I interpret it as a strong feeling that North and South America should pull together and leave Europe alone."

Mr. Richardson said, "The South Americans are very friendly to tourists from the United States; they do everything possible to make you feel at home in spite of the lack of spoken English."

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson left Atlanta on October 15, 1933, and sailed from New York on October 21 on the Grace Line steamship Santa Maria. Taking the Panama canal short cut between the continents, they started in on the west coast of South America, stopping at ports in Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile. They went by rail to the interesting points in the interior of Peru and Bolivia, including Cuzco, the capital of the Incas, where the remains of the Inca civilization are to be found.

The sights included Lake Titicaca, the highest navigable body of water in the world—about 12,500 feet above sea level—where they enjoyed a trip on a steamer. They visited La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, and went through the nitrate fields of Chile to Antofagasta, and thence via steamer to Valparaiso.

From the latter point the Richardsons traveled to Santiago, and then through the Chilean and Argentine lakes, and through southern Argentina to Buenos Aires, from which point they made a trip to Montevideo for the Pan-American congress.

Returning to Buenos Aires, they took the Munson Line steamer for Santos, the largest coffee port in the world. Two weeks were spent in Santos, one of the most important cities in Brazil, from which point they visited many interesting points in the interior. From Santos they went via the Furness and Prince Line steamers to Rio de Janeiro, where they remained two weeks before resuming their journey to New York via Trinidad.

Mr. Richardson, enthusiastic over South America, said he was delighted with the wonderful reception accorded Mrs. Richardson and himself everywhere they went. The cities they visited afforded quite a surprise in their modern achievements. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson have made a number of tours, including one around the world, but they feel, he said, that their recent South American trip was one of, if not the most interesting.

"The South American countries have felt the depression, but they are very optimistic," Mr. Richardson said. "They have great confidence in our President Roosevelt, and believe that he will lead us out of the slump. The Latin Americans have not felt the depression as severely as we have, and they all seem to be happy. Chile, however, is exercised over the synthetic nitrate of the Germans. Buenos Aires, with a population of 2,500,000, has the most unemployment, but the unemployed are being housed and fed by the government. In Brazil there are no unemployed."

2 ESCAPED CONVICTS WOUNDED, CAPTURED

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 29.—(P)—Two more escaped convicts ran afoul of police who knew how to shoot today and W. J. "Whitey" Walker and Ray A. Johnson, Oklahoma life termers, went to the hospital. The pair was "spotted" while seated in an automobile in front of a bank. Police closed in on them and Walker reached for a gun. A police shotgun load tore into the convicts' right arm. Johnson was wounded slightly. Walker may lose the arm.

Both are wanted in Texas for the $41,000 robbery of the Marlin bank and the $4,400 holdup of the Palestine bank. Capture of Walker and Johnson ended the hunt for a trio of lifers who took a taxi cab getting out of the McAlester, Okla., prison last August 30 with permits to fish in a prison lake. Irvin (Blackie) Thompson, the third man, was arrested at Miami, Fla., last Friday.

Continuing their roundup, police a few hours after the capture of the last of the Oklahoma escapes, took into custody two women, who said they were the wives of Walker and Johnson and a man giving the name of Homer Author.

They were arrested in a house a block from the Florida State College for Women. Police said they found four shotguns, two rifles, two pistols, a quantity of ammunition and Liberty and Treasury bonds totaling about $10,000 and approximately $4,000 in cash in suit cases.

'33 CHEMICAL PATENTS
BREAK ALL RECORDS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 29.—(P)—Scientific and industrial activity in chemistry reached a new high point in 1933, according to Professor E. J. Crane, of Ohio State University, who will make a report to the American Chemical Society, meeting here March 25-30.

Professor Crane is editor of Chemical Abstracts and bases his statement on the fact that 28,051 chemical patents were issued in principal countries of the world in 1933, breaking all records.

"The obtaining of patents is a form of industrial preparedness and there is reason for encouragement in the trend disclosed," he said.

'MORE PERFECT UNION' ASKED FOR RAILROADS

Eastman Opposes Consolidations and Sees No Solution in U. S. Ownership.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.—(P)—Formation of a "more perfect union" between railroads to obtain desired standards of operation and financial return was urged today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal rail co-ordinator, in an address in which he reiterated his contention that government ownership is impossible at present.

Addressing the Democratic Women's Luncheon Club, he contended that through unified operations of the present systems under the emergency transportation act can these standards be attained.

In an interview before delivering his address, Eastman said that so far as he is concerned, the Prince plan for railroad consolidation "is dead," stating he is unalterably opposed, on his own part, to consolidation plans.

The railroads at present form a "single national system, but are separately owned and the bonds between them are very loose," he said in his address.

"The question is: Cannot we form a more perfect union, under the principles of the emergency transportation act?"

"As to public ownership, I have been favorable to it for a long time. Public ownership and operations, in my opinion, would go further to correct the known ills of the railroad industry than any other remedy, and could be safeguarded against those evils that many think inherent in public ownership. But I think it might be unwise at the present time, because of the financial burden it would impose on the country in this critical time."

Stating the outlook for the railroads of the nation is bright, he said there are "great opportunities" ahead for the industry.

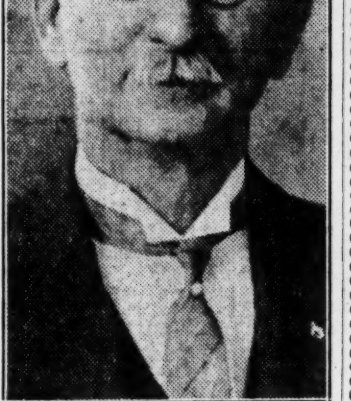

"But the main thing is to get results," he asserted.

He disclosed that he plans to report to congress on trucks and buses, waterways and airplanes, government subsidies for different transportation units and the whole question of regulation, both for railroads and competing agencies.

He voiced his support for the company union so long as they are not "financially supported by the employers."

JULIUS A. FISCHER SR. WILL BE BURIED TODAY

A native of Black Mountain, Ala., Mr. Fischer had lived in Atlanta since early manhood and had engaged in the general contracting business. He was a charter member and first secretary of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. He was a member of the Atlanta water board for several years. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Belle Jones, of West Point, Ga., and five daughters and five sons.

WIFE KILLS FARMER FOR CRITICIZING HER

SWARTSWOOD, N. J., Jan. 29.—(P)—She shot her farmer husband, Joseph, she said, because "he was all the time finding fault with me."

As he slept she placed the muzzle of a shotgun against his breast and pulled the trigger.

When he was dead, she sat in a rocking chair and awaited the return of her son from town.

This is the story police said today was told them by Mrs. Neta Heckelman, a small, nervous, red-haired woman of 46.

No charge has been placed against Mrs. Heckelman, mother of two children, Adella, 23, and Joseph, 17. She surrendered to state troopers early yesterday morning, a short time after her husband, who was 50, was killed as he lay on a cot in the kitchen of their cottage.

"I shot him because I could not stand it any longer," police quoted Mrs. Heckelman as saying. "I did it for the best."

THREE MEN INDICTED IN EXTORTION PLOT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 29.—(P)—The federal grand jury today returned indictments accusing three men of attempting to extort $18,000 from Circuit Judge Thomas P. B. B. Ripley, Miss., by means of threatening letters.

William McClanahan, United States district attorney, said the indictments named Mark Cyril Spencer, 29, his brother, Alford Spencer, about 37, and N. C. (Nath) Richardson, 44. McClanahan said all were residents of Tippah county, Mississippi.

CAR FALLS INTO CANAL, DROWNING FOUR NUNS

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 29.—(P)—Divers were called upon today to locate an automobile which plunged into a canal at Black river carrying four nuns and a man driver to their death.

The car tore through a guard rail and rolled down an embankment into 20 feet of water yesterday. When grappling hooks failed to catch the car, two divers were brought to the scene, but lack of light and a temperature of 12 degrees below zero forced them to wait until today to locate the car.

Leavenworth Displeases "Machine Gun" Kelly

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(P)—George "Machine Gun" Kelly, serving a life sentence in Leavenworth for the kidnapping of Charles F. Urschel, would rather be anywhere else than in that particular penitentiary.

Officials today revealed he had written recently to his wife, Katherine, now confined at Milan, Mich., that he hoped for a transfer to Alcatraz federal prison in California because "nothing could be worse than Leavenworth."

Now in solitary confinement, he boasted when sentenced to Leavenworth that he would "be out by Christmas."

"Yeah, but he didn't say which Christmas," the acting attorney-general, Joseph B. Keenan, said today.

SERUM ADMINISTERED TO MELVIN TRAYLOR

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(P)—As a precautionary measure, physicians attending Melvin A. Traylor administered this afternoon a serum derived from the blood of his wife, who had suffered a slight attack of pneumonia before her husband became dangerously ill with the same disease.

The doctors at the same time said his condition was much improved over last night, when his heart had suddenly weakened again.

COX BACKS ELECTION OF MRS. B. E. KEMP

Georgian Defends Right of State to Formulate Primary Rules.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Upholding the right of a state to formulate its own primary regulations, Representative Eugene Cox, of Georgia, today defended the election of Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, of Louisiana, to a seat in the lower house as a successor to her late husband, Representative Kemp.

Both Mrs. Kemp and J. Y. Sanders Jr., the other contestant for the vacancy in the sixth Louisiana district, were barred by the house from taking the oath of office.

The Georgia representative, who is a member of the rules committee, based his argument for the seating of Mrs. Kemp on constitutional grounds alone and asserted that congress had no right to inquire into a state primary held to nominate a congressional candidate.

"A state primary," Cox declared, "is not a condition precedent to the holding of a bona fide, legal election to fill a vacancy in the house from Louisiana or any other commonwealth."

Royal Reconciliation Rumored for Rumania

FLORENCE, Italy, Jan. 29.—(P)—The fact that Princess Helen, of Rumania, personally accompanied Prince Michael when they left by automobile to return to Rumania Sunday revived reports of a reconciliation with Carol today.

The princess was silent on the matter, and it was not revealed whether she intended to go all the way to Bucharest. Prince Michael had been visiting the princess here for the last month.

I contend that a legal election is not dependent upon a primary which is merely a party activity.

"It has been complained here that Mrs. Kemp should not be seated because no primary was held in her district, but it also has been said that her's was a legal election. Then why, in the name of fair play, can she not be seated? A primary is a party activity pure and simple, but an election is a constitutional function."

TEXAS CRACKSMEN GET $5,000 AT BANK

MIDLOTHIAN, Texas, Jan. 29.—(P)—The First National Bank of Midlothian was robbed of $5,000 early today by a gang of yegmen who bound and gagged a night watchman and burned their way into the bank's vault.

NEGRO IS APPOINTED AS GOTHAM OFFICIAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(P)—Hubert T. Delany was sworn in today by Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia as commissioner of taxes and assessments. Delany, a negro, is a native of Raleigh, N. C., and is a former assistant United States attorney in the southern New York district.

His mother, Nan James Delany, lives at Raleigh, where for 40 years she has taught at St. Augustine's College. His father, the Rev. Henry Beard Delany, was Episcopal bishop of North and South Carolina.

The commissioner's salary will be $10,840 a year.

Back at his home here after a long stay in the east, he said "we are unmistakably on the high road to national recovery."

DOLLAR DEVALUATION APPROVED BY DUPONT

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 29.—(P)—Alfred I. du Pont, millionaire industrialist and capitalist, has expressed agreement with dollar devaluation, declaring "the gold content of the dollar is not nearly as important as what the dollar will buy."

Back at his home here after a long stay in the east, he said "we are unmistakably on the high road to national recovery."

Three Minute
Relief From Periodical Pains

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from inorganic pains, because "B. C." will bring soothing relief in three minutes.

"B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no other drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit-forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold.—(adv.)

If you want safe relief from Constipation

Science says Today
use a LIQUID Laxative

1. Regulate intestinal action gently—no "purging"
2. Measure dose to suit your individual needs
3. Avoid Bowel Fatigue and the laxative habit

Here's Why:

Harsh laxatives often drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

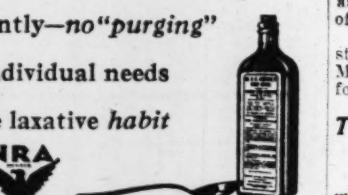

A doctor will tell you that the unwise use of harsh laxatives often does more harm than good.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time, and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains doubtful drugs, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its in-

Ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics:

First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

CITRUS GROWERS SEEK
AAA, NRA INJUNCTIONFloridians Claim Agencies
Overstep Constitution,
Form Bureaucracy.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 29.—(P)—Claims that the AAA and the NRA have overstepped the constitution and place the nation on a communistic basis marked the close of day-long arguments against the validity of citrus marketing sections of the federal farm recovery program in federal court here today.

Neither congress nor the Florida citrus control committee may legally prevent a man from doing business as he sees fit so long as he does nothing wrong in itself, R. W. Withers, counsel for attacking citrus growers and shippers, declared. He spoke nearly five hours in efforts to have Federal Judge Alexander Akerman issue permanent injunctions against enforcement of proration rules promulgated but temporarily rescinded by the state committee.

Attorneys for the federal farm administration prepared to answer the attacks made in suits brought by three groups of Florida fruitmen.

CUSTOMER PULLS GUN,
ROBS GROCERY OF $66

Purchase of a carton of cigarettes early Monday night suddenly changed into a holdup at an A&P store at 747 Marietta street when a lone white man produced a gun, held up three employees of the store and escaped with more than $66.

Those held up were Guy Hughes, of 1270 West Peachtree, in charge of the grocery department; A. F. Fisher, of 209 Central avenue, East Point, in charge of the meat market, and W. D. Martin, of Alpharetta. The bandits got $17 from the meat market and $49.20 from the grocery department, police were told.

E. A. T. LABOR DISPUTE
WILL BE HEARD TODAY

The regional labor board will hear the Eastern Air Transport shop case at 10 o'clock this morning in Room 324 Postoffice building. It was announced Monday. Eight former employees of the company have charged that they were discharged because of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, the company contending that they were laid off because of lack of work in the shop.

Operators of 29 laundries and dry cleaning companies in Birmingham, Fairfield, Bessemer and Ensley, Ala., Monday were advised by the labor board that officials of labor unions are entitled to represent former employees of the companies in hearings, following elections held in Birmingham last week. Frank Coffee, secretary of the labor board, will leave Wednesday for Washington to attend a hearing before the national labor board on a complaint that the Real Silk Hosiery Mills, of Dalton, violated the decision of the regional board.

MISSISSIPPI SENATE
VOTES AUTO TAG CUT

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 29.—(P)—Turning its attention late today to the problem of tax relief for motor vehicle owners, the state senate voted, 25 to 6, to pass the Gregory bill calling for a slash in automobile license tag costs ranging from 33 to 50 per cent.

The measure provoked sharp dispute before the final vote was ordered, with the opposition contending that the bill would "ruin the country's" chief beneficiaries of the motor taxes. The Gregory proposal would tax passenger automobiles $3, $6 or $9, according to gross factory weight.

C. C. TO INVESTIGATE
PRESS RATES ON NEWSCable and Telegraph Companies
Ordered to Produce All Such Contracts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(P)—The interstate commerce commission is inquiring into the press rates of all cable and telegraph companies in the country to determine the legality of present contracts.

William H. Bonneville, director of the bureau of inquiry of the commission, has written all communication companies asking for copies of existing contracts. His letter does not disclose the origin of the inquiry. Newspapers and press associations for many years have received special or low rates on dispatches for publication because of the large volume of news stories so handled.

"In view of the fact that the question of the legality of the transmission of press messages or press matter varies from the rates offered to others on account of the volume of press traffic handled or to be handled, a similar request is being made of other communication companies."

Copies of all contracts between your corporation or any of its subsidiaries and every news agency, press association, newspaper, or other publication which contain any provision respecting rates to be charged for telegraph services in handling press messages or press matter.

Copies of all press tariffs offered by your corporation or any of its subsidiaries, under which the rates to be charged for telegraph service in handling press messages or press matter vary from the rates offered to others on account of the volume of press traffic handled or to be handled. A similar request is being made of other communication companies."

South American News. One phase of the subject under consideration by the commission relates to contracts made by cable companies, at the request of President Wilson, with the Associated Press and the United Press for the transmission of news to South America.

These contracts were made in 1919 as a result of representations by the United States government that action was necessary to enable the American agencies to serve South American papers. At that time as well as now, the American agencies were handicapped because European agencies through special concessions were able to serve the South American field at low cost.

South American papers now print much news both of the United States and the world at large transmitted to them by American news agencies as a result of the present favorable cable rates.

JOHN N. SEBRELL, MISSISSIPPI SNUBS
SHRINE POTENTATE,
MONACO IN CLAIM OF SOVEREIGNTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(UP)—The sovereign state of Mississippi snubbed its neighbor in the air and told the principality of Monaco that it wasn't a sovereign state and might as well keep its nose out of Mississippi's business.

Anyway, said the sovereign state of Mississippi, what about the statute of limitations? The sharp words from below the Mason and Dixon line, directed at the principality whose chief industry is roulette at Monte Carlo, was inspired by Monaco's suit to collect $100,000 principal and $434,309 in interest on bonds of Mississippi's Union and Planters bank, in default since before the Civil War. The bonds were given to Monaco by creditors who would not sue a state themselves, but thought a principality could do so. Monaco brought action in the United States supreme court, Mississippi, in its reply today, held that the supreme court had no jurisdiction because only a sovereign state could sue proud Mississippi and Monaco has yielded sovereignty to France. The statute of limitations would outlaw the case anyway, the brief contended.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 29.—(P)—An American pilot, Gordon Mounce, and his wife escaped injury today when their airplane was forced down and damaged in a fog near the village of Staneft, about 43 miles east of Bucharest.

They were flying to Bucharest from Istanbul.

DOLFUSS SEEKS AID TO KEEP OUT NAZIS

VIENNA, Jan. 29.—(P)—Austria's small but war-hardened peasant chancellor, Engelbert Dollfuss, voiced a plea today for aid to keep out the Austrian peasants to rally around him and beat back an imminent "general offensive" of Nazis.

Speaking to 200 leaders of the Lower Austrian Peasants' League, the chancellor solemnly warned them that trouble was brewing on the Nazi front or about January 30th and appealed to them to risk life and limb in the defense of the homeland. He demanded also that they help crush "the menace of Marxism."

QUINCY O. ARNOLD.

QUINCY ARNOLD ENTERS
FULTON COUNTY RACE

One additional qualification Monday made four qualified entrants for the three positions of county commissioner for which nominations will be made March 7.

Additional interest was added to the impending contests when Quincy O. Arnold, mayor of Hapeville, entered the lists in announcing his candidacy.

Thomas Croom Partridge, Atlanta attorney, was the latest to qualify, according to Hewitt Chambers, secretary of the county democratic committee.

Others who have qualified are William L. McCalley Jr., Edwin F. Johnson, former chairman of the county board, and Dr. Charles R. Adams.

Arnold is serving his second term as mayor of Hapeville, having been elected the first time on a platform to liberalize the policies of the town towards the traveling public and reduce the number of arrests made for speeding and minor violations of traffic regulations.

During his term as mayor of Hapeville, taxes have been reduced approximately 30 per cent, despite the installation of a modern fire department.

His announcement is as follows: "I hereby announce my candidacy for county commissioner from the county-at-large, subject to the democratic primary on March 7, 1934."

"In these days it is popular for a candidate for office to promise everybody everything. I do not subscribe to that doctrine. My only pledge to the citizens of Fulton county, if elected, is that I will see that they get 100 cents in service for every dollar of taxes expended, that I will do my utmost to reduce their taxes and give them an honest and efficient county government. I am still old-fashioned enough to believe that a public officer is a public servant."

"I have no political alignments and am free to serve the people as my conscience dictates."

PERKINS DETAILS PLAN

Doom of Bread Line Under Her Program.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(P)—The possibility of creating a nation-wide system of unemployment insurance within two years—designed to take the place of bread lines—was declared today by Miss Frances Perkins.

The secretary of labor, addressing the national conference for unemployment insurance at the Hotel Commodore, disclosed a bill will be introduced in congress shortly for a federal tax on employers.

The measure would promote state legislation on unemployment insurance from the federal employers' tax for all contributions to state unemployment insurance schemes.

The proposed federal law, she said, would not dictate to the states what kind of measures they shall pass but leaves entire freedom on this point to

Hofmann, To Play Here Thursday,
Acclaimed for New York Concert

Josef Hofmann, universally acclaimed one of the greatest pianists of the era, will give one of his incomparable concerts at Wesley Memorial hall at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night.

Mr. Hofmann gave his only New York concert of the season at Carnegie Hall on January 20, and the New York press was unanimous in acclaiming it one of the greatest the master pianist has ever given there.

"Hofmann was at the peak of his exalted musicianship and virtuosity and I would like to set down the dispassionate statement that no other pianist on the public platform today could equal some of the performances heard at this matinee. The marvelous gifts of Hofmann have become a tradition, but he appeared yesterday even to excel his previous extraordinary."

The states. She predicted that if congress passes the proposed tax plan the more than 40 legislatures in session this year and next year would have an increasing incentive to pass laws setting up reserves.

"We must realize the necessity of setting up such reserves in the different states so that in the future they may take the place of the bread line or other charities as a systematic, honorable method of 'liding over a slump period for those who want work and lack it.'" Miss Perkins said.

"In urging unemployment reserves I realize that its adoption would mean the throwing up of economic bulwarks for all wage earners. Property safeguarded in will, however, constitute a certain definite measure of security for many workers and their families."

Things equal to the same thing are NOT equal to each other

Coal, for example

In size, weight, color and other physical aspects, coal looks so much alike the average person can't tell the difference. Hence, the common fallacy—"Things equal to the same thing are equal to each other."

Facts are, coal varies in heat units as widely as other commodities vary in quality. And, heat units is the standard by which fuel quality is appraised.

Randall's
"CHIEF" Coal

Weather like that of today affords splendid opportunity to apply the test in your own home. If in need of coal, try CHIEF, and you will readily perceive that, "things equal to the same thing are NOT equal to each other."

Chief is the ideal fuel for furnace, heater, grate and cook stove. It is more economical to use because it is all coal. No clinkers. Burns to a fine pinkish-color ash.

Nut size, $7.00; lump, $7.25. Fifty cents more if charged.

If you insist on using cheaper coal, we can supply that, too.

Warm Springs Colony Ready For Festive Birthday Party

Holiday Air Holds Sway at Foundation; Generous Gifts Made in All Parts of Country.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Warm Springs Foundation wore a Christmas Eve air tonight as patients completed preparations to celebrate President Roosevelt's birthday and heard of generous gifts to a fund to aid fellow sufferers from infantile paralysis.

From Detroit came news that Edsel Ford had announced a $22,500 gift to the foundation endowment fund from the Detroit automobile industry and one of $1,000 from Senator James Couzens. There was similar news from other communities.

More exciting to the patients, perhaps, than the reports of contributions to the endowment fund was the detailed announcement of President Roosevelt's plan to broadcast a message of personal thanks tomorrow night to friends participating in the celebration of his fifty-second birthday. He is to speak over the radio on two national networks from the White House at 11:20 p. m., eastern standard time.

Stephen T. Early, a secretary to the president, announced today Mr. Roosevelt planned to speak "as the representative of and in behalf of the crippled children of the nation, particularly those stricken with infantile paralysis who will be the beneficiaries of the fund being raised" from birthday balls in the president's honor.

The line with program.

The statement explained the plans of the national committee sponsoring the celebrations were in line with the couple of fellows walk and perform on their hands—believe it or not they support their entire weights on the fingers only.

And there is the Alexander troupe of acrobats and tumblers. One of the greatest. Take it from this reviewer it is a good show and, whether you subscribe fully to the joke or not, you'll enjoy pretty nearly all of it.

Of course, the physical performers are not all the show. There is a girl who sings quite acceptably and a sister act of singers and dancers. And other. To say nothing of a stage band that, appropriately enough, opens the show with a jazzy rendition of "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the old Irving Berlin hit.

The picture is "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," a college romance in which the big hero is the stroke on the college eight-oar crew and the heroine is the girl who is the love and despair of a very susceptible youth on the campus. Pleasant entertainment.

Manager Harry Hall has a nice program this week, worth anyone's time to see and hear. To be frank, it is far, far better entertainment than his offering of last week, even if Bill Shakespeare did say "comparisons are odorous."

ATLANTANS TO PAY TRIBUTE TO F. D. R.

The beneficiaries of the fund being raised.

"The plans of the national committee sponsoring the nationwide birthday celebrations are in line with the program undertaken years ago by the president to arouse the nation's consciousness to the human destruction caused by infantile paralysis," Early said.

$10,000 Is Atlanta Goal.

Atlanta leaders of the Roosevelt ball organization are hopeful of raising at least $10,000 for the Warm Springs Foundation, according to Commander J. D. L. Jones, president of the organization.

The purchase of a ticket for $1.50 entitles the couple holding it to attend all three parties, it was said. At each ball there will be a different floor show, with the performers going from one place to another. Tables may be reserved at Peachtree Gardens.

Under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Freitag as chairman, the following will sell tickets today at the Davison-Paxon and Rich's booths: Mrs. H. H. Simmons, Mrs. George Rosenbaum, Mrs. W. B. Schwartz, Mrs. Morris Solomon, Mrs. Louis Regenstein, Mrs. Leon Frohman, Mrs. Oscar Strauss, Mrs. W. D. Lipschutz, Mrs. J. H. Heinz, Mrs. S. A. Massell, Mrs. Alex Dittler, Mrs. Kurt Holland, Mrs. David Marx and Miss Ann Cohen.

The president's address will be coupled with the nationwide radio broadcast before the microphone some of the outstanding stars of the world, including Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, Eddie Duchin's band, and other.

Shows To Follow Speech.

The local entertainments will begin with the presentation of floor shows and immediately after the president's address. There will be pretty girls in numerous specialty dances and songs, and special numbers by the orchestras.

Governor and Mrs. Talmadge have in mind they will visit each of the parties, accompanied by Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area.

The Young People's Service League of the Church of the Incarnation, West End, has sent to the president a letter of greeting on the occasion of his birthday. The letter is signed by L. J. Clark, president of the league, and by the Rev. G. W. Gasque, rector of the church.

The letter prays that "May God give you strength to carry forward your great work and so lead the congress that the greatest good will come to our country. Especially do we pray for the continued peace of our land. May you be equally as dauntless and courageous in safeguarding America from the embroils of old world strife as you have been in your matchless campaign for our national recovery."

F. D. R. TO LEAVE PARTY FOR TALK OVER RADIO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will leave his own personal birthday party in the White House tomorrow night to acknowledge over the air the many parties in honor of his fifty-second anniversary.

The president will speak at 11:20 p. m., eastern standard time.

As has been his custom for 13 years Mr. Roosevelt will share his birthday dinner with the men who were associated with him when he was assistant secretary of the navy and during his 1920 vice presidential campaign.

The president and Mrs. Roosevelt also will have with them tomorrow night around the birthday cake intimate members of the White House staff.

Those who will be at the party include the president's secretaries, Louis M. Howe, Marvin H. McIntyre and Stephen T. Early.

Others of the 1920 group include Kirk Simpson, of Washington; Charles McCarthy, of Albany; Thomas Lynch, former New York tax commissioner; James Sullivan, of Boston; and Stanley Pennell, of New York.

Other guests will be Mrs. Anna Curtis Dall, daughter of the president; Miss Margaret Lehand, and Miss Grace Tulley, private secretaries; Miss Marian Dickerson, of New York; Miss Margaret Durant and Mrs. Malvina Schneider, of the White House staff; and Miss Nancy Cook, of Hyde Park.

It is the custom for Mr. Roosevelt to cut his own birthday cake. He did this last year at Warm Springs, in the presence of the children at that institution.

It is understood he will make only a brief talk tomorrow night and an entirely personal one, thanking those who are remembering him and contributing to the Warm Springs fund.

40 BALLS TO BE HELD THROUGHOUT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Thousands of New Yorkers will dance tomorrow night at more than 40 balls in honor of the president's birthday.

Most brilliant of the functions will be the birthday ball at the Waldorf-Astoria. Notables in every walk of life have taken boxes, and thousands of reservations have been made.

Mrs. James Roosevelt, daughter of the president, has taken box No. 1 for the Waldorf party. The indefatigable mother also will attend the insurance men's dinner-dance at the Hotel Astor first, and in the afternoon she will be at a fashion show on the steamship Queen of Bermuda.

Mayor LaGuardia, Police Commissioner John E. O'Brien, United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, and others have promised to attend a dinner-dance given by the Spirits Club, trade body of the wine and liquor industry at the Roosevelt hotel.

ATLANTA, NATION IN WINTER'S GRIP; DROP TO 10 SEEN

giving way to slowly rising temperatures which will reach 30 during the day. The cold came in under the influence of a high pressure area over the northwest, strong winds setting in Sunday night to chill lagoons and play tricks with awnings and loose signs and windows.

The intense cold brought the usual troubles of such weather, including fires which destroyed two homes, accidents due to steaming radiators and fire alarms, and illnesses resulting from exposure.

The freeze Monday morning extended over central Georgia. Zero weather was reported as far south as central Illinois, and it was below 10 degrees over much of Tennessee. The lowest reported was 28 degrees below zero at The Pas, Canada. Chattanooga reported 14 degrees, Nashville 8, Birmingham 18 and Charlotte 22.

Mrs. R. T. Jones of the night editor of The Constitution, and their two young children, were forced from their home at 1402 Piedmont avenue Monday morning when flames of undetermined origin were discovered on the roof. The house, a two-story apartment building, was badly damaged. Mr. Dozier was away on a hunting trip at the time.

Morris Klein occupied the lower floor of the apartment house and his family was forced out with the Doziers.

Fireman Gus Guimarin, getting his wet while fighting fire at the Dozier home, was put out of commission for several hours while his frost-bitten hands were being nursed back into condition, it was said.

The family of Pete J. Karras was forced to flee from the home at 489 Cooper street, S. W., early Monday morning when flames caught fire from an undetermined cause.

Fire Captain Z. A. Johnson, of Company 18, received a possible fracture of the skull when he tripped while reaching for the slipping pole at the engine house in answer to what proved to be a false alarm. His condition was said to be fair at Grady hospital.

J. T. Whitlock, 19, of 229 McClellan avenue, was treated at Grady hospital for exposure after being found in a vacant lot at Glenwood and Windsor streets by radio patrolmen. She told police that she was overcome by cold while trying to walk to her home.

Relief Workers Busy.

Many cities, experiencing drops as low as 55 degrees in 12 hours, found their hands full with relief work for the homeless. In Troy, N. Y., established field kitchens in an emergency. Cold weather kept many CWA workers away from their jobs at Chicago and other points.

At least 10 men died in a fire at Hammon, N. J., a man was found frozen to death beneath a wrecked car near Charleston, W. Va., a man and his daughter froze to death near Winnipegosis, in the northern country, six persons died of exposure in Chicago, and one person in Indianapolis and one in Milwaukee died of exposure on icy sidewalks. In Troy, N. Y., two sleeping men were killed in a clubhouse fire. At least a third of Wrightsville Beach, N. C., was in ashes as the result of a disastrous fire. Many frame structures were burned in a fire at Canarsie, Brooklyn, N. Y.

At the weather bureau, it was said that while no definite reports have been received, there probably has been some damage to winter truck crops, although it was not believed that shrubbery has been injured much by the cold. The succeeding hard freeze this morning probably will do the greatest damage to truck crops, it was said.

Falls Warm Spell.

The cold wave came on the heels of a spell of mild weather in which the lowest was a 31-degree reading on the 17th and a 32-degree reading on the 9th and 10th of this month. This January is not as mild as the same month of 1933 by at least 4 degrees, the weather man said. The lowest January mean temperature on record was 34.5 degrees in 1918, as compared with 47 degrees mean temperature for this month.

High winds which accompanied the cold blew out a large glass window at the Jones used car place, 115 Kona street, N. W., according to police reports.

The cold weather brought a large increase in the number of sleeping seeking accommodations at the police station.

"SNOOKY" WOODS AGAIN TRIUMPHS ON ATLANTA STAGE

"Snooky" Woods returned to the Atlanta theater Monday, much to the delight of every patron in the house. This girl Snooky has something that no other burlesque performer seems able to acquire. She can outdance 'em all in her own style of dancing—and how—but she does with a touch of applied art that puts her act over like no one else can. She stopped the show Monday night, for a fact, both during the first half and after the intermission.

There are a number of other items in a splendid burlesque production that demand special mention this week. For instance they have, at last, a male singer who can really deliver a song. Harry Rollins is his name. He is baritone. It will take two trips to find out if he's really as good as he seemed Monday, or if it was partly the benefit of comparison with some of his predecessors.

You never saw, on land or sea, a boy who can dance like Bob Moore, another new-comer. No use trying to describe it; it must be seen to be believed.

Our old friend, Hap Farnell, the cleverest comedian of them all, who will have to look to his laurels or he'll lose his honors to another member of the family. Mrs. Farnell is an accomplished performer always, but she excelled in the comedy satire, "The Reform Wave," near the end of the show. And her costuming was immense. It would be.

Vic Hallen and Johnny Knott are still as funny as ever. Helen Walters, Gloria DuVelle, Hazel Devine, N. Bennett still put over the songs and rip-tense acts with inimitable effect. And the stage settings get better every week. Note especially the spider web number and "Smoke Rings."

If you go to the Atlanta this week for no other reason than to see Snooky, you have all the excuse needed. She's worth the price alone, in any man's show. Hope she stays with us from now.

SCHRODER IS NAMED TO COMMERCE POST

Well-Known Atlantan Heads Bureau Here, Succeeding W. L. Mitchell.

William H. Schroder, assistant manager of the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company, has been appointed acting district manager of the Atlanta office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, Willard L. Thorpe, director of the bureau, announced in Washington Monday.

Mr. Schroder, who resides at 1988 Peachtree road, N. E., assumed his duties Monday, succeeding William L. Mitchell, who since July has been connected with the national recovery administration.

The bureau's Atlanta office serves the entire state of Georgia.

"The appointment of Mr. Schroder," said Dr. Thorpe, "is in line with the policy of the department of commerce to select, in so far as possible, for important field positions in this country, men who are native to the territory which they will serve. This policy is based largely upon the personal pride which it is believed will naturally actuate the appointee in his efforts to provide maximum service to his home community."

"Atlanta's new manager has spent considerable time in Washington recently, where he has been given intensive training in the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce so that the business contacts of the Atlanta office may receive the full benefit of the more extensive facilities which are available in Washington."

WATER AGAIN, OR STILL?

Yesterday we talked about the significance of the physical properties of water, and declined to go further with that side of the subject. Today I want to say a bit about the importance of water as a factor in determining climate. We seem to have plenty of climate with us right now.

Large bodies of water which absorb quantities of heat during the summer lose it much more slowly than do large areas of land. That is to say, while the land and the water may absorb equal quantities of heat in a given time, the greater heat-retention qualities of water enable it to hold that heat for a much longer time. This heat is radiated by the water in sufficient quantities to moderate the chill of autumn. Areas without great expanses of water have more abrupt changes of season than regions where lakes are abundant.

Heat has peculiar pattern of distribution in water. During the summer months any lake of over 40-foot depth has a temperature stratification which divides the lake into three layers. The first, called the epilimnion, is of warm surface waters, and for every meter of depth below the surface, the temperature falls less than one degree centigrade. The layer below the epilimnion is called the thermocline, or sprunzsicht, in which the temperature drops more than one degree centigrade for each meter of descent. This layer moves toward the surface late in the summer, and exercises a marked influence on the distribution of animal life in the lake. Below the thermocline, there is the hypolimnion, in which the temperature characteristics are the same as in the epilimnion. This arrangement is constant over the entire lake, and remains so until the autumnal overturn, which is the result of falling temperatures of the surface and strong wind action.

During the winter, the temperature of the lake is from seven to just above the surface to 4 degrees centigrade at the bottom, due to the density of water at that temperature. I don't care how deep the lake may be, it is never colder than 4 degrees at the bottom. Then comes the spring overturn, and the summer stratification is resumed. If you consider the laws of the solution of gases in water, with the differences in temperature, you may reach some interesting conclusions about lakes. This is especially recommended for fishermen as a mental exercise just before retiring.

McYere Shirt Co. SHIRT MAKERS TO GENTLEMEN

I ate pie and cake---lost 40 pounds!

I simply couldn't go through with all those kicking and bending exercises—they were me out.

Then I tried to diet—but it didn't seem fair. I simply adored chocolate cake—and why should I have to give it up when all my slender friends eat it regularly and never seem to gain a pound?

Finally I learned about a simple corrective for abnormal obesity, known and prescribed by physicians that would change the food I ate into energy instead of excess fat! And I learned that it was put up in convenient tablets containing exactly the right quantity—by one of the best-known medical laboratories in the United States.

And so I took Marmola—4 tablets a day—and quickly my excess fat began to disappear. What delighted me even more was the way I felt as a result of taking it—so mentally alert, so full of pep!

Now I'm down to normal—and never again will I let myself put on that deadening load of useless fat. Whenever I start to gain again, I take Marmola. It keeps my weight exactly right!

Thousands of women who have reduced the Marmola way might well tell you that story. Since 1907, more than 20,000,000 packages of Marmola have been purchased. Could you ask for any better recommendation than that?

Today—buy a package of Marmola, and start at once. You will soon experience Marmola's benefits. When you have gone far enough, stop taking Marmola. And you will bless the day you first discovered this marvelous reducing agent.

Marmola is on sale by dealers everywhere—from coast to coast.

Chi Omega Chapter House Dedication Takes Place at Oglethorpe on Feb. 4

The dedication of the new Chi Omega chapter house at Oglethorpe University takes place on Sunday afternoon, February 4, at 4 o'clock and will be featured by an auspicious ceremony. This is the first fraternity house to be erected on the university campus, and the feat has been achieved by members of the Sigma Gamma chapter of Chi Omega.

Invitation to attend the dedication has been extended Mrs. Corra Harris, well-known Georgia author, and member of the Epsilon Beta chapter of Chi Omega at Rollins College, in Winter Park, Fla. Dr. Thornevil Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University, will deliver an appropriate address, and the bronze tablet embedded in one side of granite fireplace will be unveiled. Mrs. Mary C. Love Collins, of Cincinnati, Ohio, national president of Chi Omega, has been invited to attend the ceremony, and Miss Eugenia Patterson, president of the Atlanta Alumnae Association, will deliver the dedicatory address. Other officers include Miss Ellen Woodford, vice president; Miss Florence Bryan, secretary; Miss St. Julianne Pringle, treasurer, and Miss Jane Crenshaw is the pledge captain. The roster of members includes Misses Martha Carmichael, Jane Gaertner, Sydney Klein, Evelyn Wix and Aline Timmons. Misses Marion Fugitt, Josephine Lippold, Frances Barge, Frances Gorman, Eloise Polak and Clyde Partlow compose the pledge list.

The attractive chapter house, built of novelty wares and painted white, occupies a vantage point on the road leading to Silver Lake. The building overlooks Oglethorpe University and the granite foundation is exactly like that used for the university buildings. The huge fireplace is built at one end of the long living room and inscribed on the bronze tablet at one side are the names of the officers and members of the chapter. Comfortable chairs, a handsome table and davenport and other furnishings make for an inviting setting for the weekly meetings and the social affairs to be held in the living room.

Sigma Gamma chapter of Chi Omega fraternity is 10 years old, and the new chapter house was erected through the funds accruing from the initiation dues during the past decade, and through the medium of the building fund. Chi Omega members are deeply interested in education, social and civic service as outlined by the national Chi Omega organization, and the chapter at Oglethorpe University is regarded as one of the leading and most important units in the national body.

Friendly Counsel BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondents are invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Please give my opinion of the world's meanest man. He has a wife and three children and is a man who lives with them. He treats his wife disgracefully, curses his poor old mother and goes every night to a woman who lives in a boarding house. They go out and come in at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. While he is larking with this woman his wife is at home taking care of his mother. Wouldn't you think that he would be on his knees to his wife thanking her for being so good instead of fooling her? My friend's husband belongs to the same set and he is with him and we are planning to have him investigated and expelled. Then we will phone his wife to watch the house and catch him in the act. This woman should be tarred and feathered. Tell us what you think of this man and also of our plan.

INDIGNANT.

ANSWER:

There can be no difference of opinion about the man. He is a conscienceless scoundrel who has no pity, no pride, no honor and no sense of decency. He is under the domination of a wicked woman and he is long as he lives, he will be the condemnation of public opinion not expulsion from a secret order will make him change his course.

Men learn more quickly than women on the truth and the nature of men. "He that meddles with strife belonging not to him is like one that taketh a dog by the ears." If you were to pursue the plan you propose, you would invite your neighbor to a piece of dirty business that doesn't concern you and the result might be disastrous for all parties concerned.

No thinking person could condone your plan to put the wife to the test of her husband's guilt. She probably knows all that already and the revelation that others know it is invalid only add to her heartache and humiliation. Instead of trying to arouse the wife's suspicion, instead of bringing open disgrace on her in your effort to punish her husband, you should try to show her some neighborly kindness that will ease her burden. In the meantime stop the wagging tongue.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

When my boyfriend went away he wrote regularly and frequently. He would answer my letters the day he got them. Now he takes a long time to answer and pours out his heart to me about the misery of being separated from me. Yet in the last letter he wrote that I ought to realize that I was wasting my time on him. In view of this how should I treat him? Should I continue to write him or should I tell him to send my letters back to me and call it quits? He seems to have given up interest in everything because he cannot be with me.

ANSWER:

You know a dud is a shell that won't explode. Once it is shot with out effect there is no use in picking it up and trying to shoot it a second time. You have got hold of a dud and the sooner you recognize it the better. Get your letters back and tell the young man that you are wasting your time and have decided to put a stop to it.

Alliance Francaise Meets Thursday

Mrs. Edgar Neely, one of the vice presidents of the Alliance Francaise, will be hostess at the meeting at 3 o'clock on Thursday, February 1, at her home, 4 Barksdale drive. The meeting will feature a timely lecture by Paul Seydel on the League of Nations and its relations with the small nations. Members who have heard Mr. Seydel speak in the past have given him a reputation for his clear analysis, lively humor and the clearness of his French. A Belgian by birth, he has long appreciated the difficulties of smaller nations in defending their integrity and interests at Geneva, and the scanty attention too often paid them by the council.

Miss Ann Morris, an advanced pupil of Miss Evelyn Jackson, will play several numbers from French masters on the piano. There will be French social games before the usual hour of the hostess.

Charles Loridan, president, who sailed last week with Mrs. Loridan for the orient, will return on April 14, and during his absence Mrs. John Slaton will act as president of the Alliance.

ATLANTA REALTORS TO OPEN CAMPAIGN ON TAX UNFAIRNESS

Handbills captioned, "Is Our Cause Just?" showing the discriminations against real estate as a source of tax revenue, will be distributed to property owners by the Atlanta Real Estate Board today.

Home ownership, the handbills warn, is endangered by excessive taxation. The board estimates that 20,000 homes already have been given up or are in distress, and other thousands are holding on only through the forbearance of mortgage holders and tax collectors.

The total assessed value of all real estate in Atlanta in 1933 is placed at $260,000,000. Mortgages are estimated at $180,000,000, leaving an actual value to the property owners of $80,000,000, or barely 15 per cent of all the city's wealth. Yet, the board claims, this 15 per cent of wealth pays 80 per cent of the taxes.

The board also pointed out that thousands of persons living in Atlanta own no real estate and pay only nominal taxes, yet get the same benefit from the city's institutions as the large taxpayers.

Citing the failure of the city to reduce property assessments, the board declares that in doing so it violates the law which says that assessments shall be made at the cash market valuation. It adds that many properties are assessed for more than they would bring at a sale.

The board concludes with a plea for support of the owners against high taxes.

ATLANTA LAWYERS TO HONOR MARSHALL

An interesting feature of Saturday's meeting will be the announcement of the tabulated results of the recent questionnaires sent to the local lawyers as to the method of selecting judges of the superior and municipal courts.

Joe Johnston Returns, Visits Friends at P. O.

Joe P. Johnston, formerly a postal inspector here, visited the old scenes at the federal building Monday. His most telling recollection of that period back in 1927 was being shot in the back by a disgruntled ex-postoffice employee.

That happened while Mr. Johnston was walking on Fairlie street. It was only a flesh wound, and the employee—not in Mr. Johnston's department—is serving the unexpired portion of a 15-year prison term.

Mr. Johnston was transferred to St. Paul in 1929. He was released a year ago at 70. He now lives in Fulton, Mo.

Weinbergers Present Advance Spring Revue Of Exclusive Germaine Monteil Collection

Weinberger mannish who displayed the smart spring creations of Madame Germaine Monteil at an invitation revue yesterday at Weinbergers' Peachtree street emporium included, left to right, Miss Marion Stanton, wearing a striking black and white cocktail ensemble; Miss Ruth Moreland, appearing in a butterfly yellow evening print, the accompanying chiffon coat trimmed in red fox fur; Mrs. C. D. Benson photographing wearing a white cloque evening gown offset with cherry red velvet; and Miss Bernice Weinberger displaying a black evening ensemble relieved with touches of white.

BY ANNIE LOU HARDY.

Heralding the joyous approach of spring was the invitation fashion revue staged yesterday morning by Weinbergers before an exclusive clientele of fashionable Atlantans. Presented against a background of tropical palms and flowers to the luring strains of an orchestra, one forgot the bitter cold outside in contemplation of the advance collection of ravishing costumes designed for southern wear by the skillful and artistic Madame Germaine Monteil, of New York and Paris.

Pertinent to the times, the collection is entirely practical and runs the gamut of styles, from the chic morning and street ensembles, through the cocktail and dinner hour, to the elaborate gowns planned for the evening.

The tailored wardrobe, high lights the collection with innumerable little jacket suits vying for favor with one-piece frocks with their accompanying coats, and the influence of the tailleur extending even to the evening designs. A fascinating new material, exclusive with Germaine Monteil, is called by the equally fascinating name "boule mich," a soft, supple weave that is admirably adapted to the fluid lines of the mode.

Other favorites with this couturiere are the lovely crepe velma, from which she fashions many evening gowns, and a dainty white she uses with much distinction and success in her fall collection. An interesting new note is the prevalence of plaits, which have come into their own again in the form of pleated skirts, blouses, the hemline, and slight kick pleats which give variety to skirts. Much attention is focused on the gay prints which are used for both daytime and evening, the favored colors being light blue, buttercup, and nasturtium, with invariably a dash of cherry red.

Theme is "The Rose." The members of the revue presentation was the "rose," the revue opening with a delectable pink rose costume of starched chiffon and closing with a "golden rose." Modeling the costumes were Misses Bernice Weinberger, Ruth Moreland, Marion Stanton, Jaquelin Moore and Mrs. C. D. Benson. Probably the outstanding thrill—capture it now when you can—this smart frock for spring. The shade varying into a soft purple tone for evening use. Brown is another favorite.

Mr. Marion Harper, always a smartly attired figure, chose for the occasion a black coat trimmed with black and the other of brown, an other beautiful coat of exquisitely matched mink skins was worn by Mrs. Oliver Healey over an emerald green dress. A small brown suede hat completed her costume.

Mrs. B. M. Bailey and Mrs. William J. McKim, also attired in black, a striking pair in all-black costumes, their black coats collared with luxurious silver fox, and their small black hats caught up with rhinestone clips. Silver fox also adorned Mrs. Stewart Witham's black coat and her other strong note, with much black and dark blue in striking combination. If the theme of the costume is light, the detail must be dark. Witness, for instance, a smart beige tailored suit, with a decidedly yellowish tone, which achieves distinction through a navy blue blouse, and a navy blue hat.

The cocktail costume, which is fast gaining popularity with smart New York women, was repeated in the collection of the eighteenth amendment, was a charming and interesting phase of the collection. It is developed as a tailored suit, a one-piece dress with or without a matching coat, but always made ankle-length. A striking example of this type of costume was a knee-length black satin coat with small white figure, worn over a black crepe velma frock finished with an ascot tie of white batiste. A small black satin jacket, with a smart black beret, revealed the hair and is worn far back off the face, was a smart accessory.

Smartly Attired Audience.

Among the prominent Atlanta women attending the showing was Mrs. Mitchell King, attired in a black suit collared in sable and worn with a most becoming black velvet beret. For a more casual style, Mrs. Edward Inman, who wore with a gray wool dress and a gray felt hat, a stunning black coat. Mrs. Will Jones' black cloth coat was collared in mink and worn with a smart black beret.

Refused against a cold winter day were Mrs. Fred Cockrell and Mrs. Frank Sites, their handsome mink coats lined with black and the other of brown, an other beautiful coat of exquisitely matched mink skins was worn by Mrs. Oliver Healey over an emerald green dress. A small brown suede hat completed her costume.

Wedding Tableau.

Climaxing the creditable showing was a wedding tableau, with the beautiful young bride wearing a tailored bridal gown of white "boule mich," which was almost nun-like in its simplicity and severity. Fashioned with the high neckline and close-fitting long sleeves, the gown was entirely unadorned. The tulle bridal veil fell from an off-the-face hair of tulle, and the bride carried a small white prayer book. The two bridesmaids wore diaphanous chiffon gowns, one in cell blue and the other in gold, with white and black hats in matching tones. Completing their exquisite costumes were tiny, demure bouquets of hand-made chiffon flowers which repeated the colors of their gowns.

Distinctive to the nth degree and feminine in every detail, the collection won the instant approval of the Atlanta audience, and after side by side phrasing Weinbergers' place among the city's smartest costumers.

NANCY PAGE
This Hour Glass Comes from Rochester, New York
BY FLORENCE I. GANKE

"The hours I spent with thee, dear heart," began Nancy as the members of her quilt club met at her home. The women thought that the tender was quoting poetry for no reason at all until they saw the pattern she had for them. "I call this the 'hour glass'." The design came from me from Fisher, St. Rochester, N. Y. I changed it slightly from the original.

The pattern has never been seen in this city. The women thought that the tender was quoting poetry for no reason at all until they saw the pattern she had for them. "I call this the 'hour glass'." The design came from me from Fisher, St. Rochester, N. Y. I changed it slightly from the original.

The members looked at the pattern and agreed that it would work up prettily. Nancy suggested their regular procedure—first the cutting from the pattern, then the sewing to the paper for the direction sheet with its full-size patterns.

In choosing the materials for this quilt, the members were careful to select color-fast material.

They used white, a plain color, and then one or two prints in the predominating color for the plain block. The members were experienced enough to know that all prints should be small and all-over in pattern, otherwise the form of the block was lost.

The actual pattern for "Hour Glass" quilt, to be obtained by sending three cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Nancy Page, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Each pattern must be accompanied by sending an additional three cents for each pattern requested.

COUNTY SEEKS $28,000
FOR NINE NEW BRIDGES

Application for $28,000 in CWA funds for nine new concrete or steel bridges will be made by the board of county commissioners, it was decided at the board's session Monday.

The proposed bridges are to replace wooden ones on Cherokee Bridge and Moore's Mill roads, over the S. A. L. railroad; Welcome All road, over the A. R. & C. road at four points on the Fairburn road, over the A. B. & C. Fulton avenue, over Southern railway tracks, and over the A. B. & C. road on Campbellton road.

The commission deferred until Wednesday afternoon consideration of charitable appropriations for the year. The only salary action taken was with relation to about 130 public works department employees who were receiving $150 per month in 1932 and suffered subsequent cuts.

Such salaries were ordered returned to $150 and then a cut of 10 per cent made.

In Pattern 5079 you will find a transfer pattern, with color indications, of the dog, 8-12 x 12-14 inches; complete instructions and material requirements for making a pillow or picture. Price of pattern, ten (10) cents.

"HOUSE OF EXILE" TO BE DISCUSSED

"The House of Exile," by Nora Waln, will be the subject of Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris' morning talk before the Atlanta chapter. The lecture will begin at 10 o'clock.

"The House of Exile" has been one of the most discussed books of the current season, revealing the inner life of an American emigrant. The author was brought up in a Quaker household in Pennsylvania but from early childhood her imagination was fired by the adventures of the great sea and the legends of the East.

Miss Laura Maddox Expectsto Accompany Parents on Cruise

Upon his return to Atlanta on Monday from Philadelphia, Robert F. Maddox reported the satisfactory progress of Miss Laura Maddox, who underwent an emergency operation last week at the Temple University hospital in Philadelphia. She was enrolled at Oglethorpe school, and the operation was deemed necessary before the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Maddox, who boarded an airplane last Tuesday as soon as they were notified by telephone.

JIM BROWNING RETURNS HERE TO MEET RIVAL

N. Y. Champion Faces Daviscount at City Auditorium.

Matchmaker Henry Weber announced last night that there will be as many ticket booths at the city auditorium tonight as for the Jim London match recently, but urged that fans go early to avoid standing around in the cold, cold air.

Auditorium doors will open for the Jim Browning-Dick Daviscount feud at 6:30 o'clock. The "early bird" will be enabled to catch tickets and breeze on into the heated structure.

Others will buy tickets today at the Piedmont Hatters.

SELL-OUT. Indications are that it will be a sell-out house, as was the case in London's last appearance. Matchmaker Henry Weber declared last night.

Renewal of the Browning-Daviscount feud has created tremendous interest here. There are many fans who remember their former blood and thunder engagements.

Browning and Daviscount always have gone to war. The reason for this is that they really do not care for each other. This will be evident to the fans once the match is under way.

CHAMPION. Browning, the younger, has gone on to achieve national fame and a world's title. That is, the state of New York recognizes him as such. He is considered next to Jim London.

Daviscount, the elder, is one of the most colorful figures in the game. He expects to turn Browning's favorite airplane spin into a tail spin at Browning's expense.

Sammy Stein, famed Jewish wrestler, meets Frank Judson in the semi-final. Stein is a favorite in New York and rarely stars beyond the environs of the state.

The promising card begins at 8:15.

Jones Course Shows Big Gains

Popularity of the Bobby Jones municipal golf course has exceeded the combined play of the four nine-hole courses, it was learned Monday. Figures released Monday show that the Jones course took in $441.50 from Friday through Sunday, while all the others netted only $384.50 for the same period.

The Jones course also collected more during the first 28 days of January than all the others.

The Bobby Jones golf course took in $1,541.50 for the first 28 days of January, according to figures released Monday by George L. Simons, general manager of parks. It was opened December 30.

The five municipal courses collected $2,048.75 for the same period as against $1,829.25 for the entire month last year.

Simons pointed out that only one week-end for this month has been suitable for golfing, and added that larger proportionate receipts are expected during the spring and summer months.

Hialeah Stewards Find More 'Dopings'

MIAMI, Jan. 29.—(P)—The stewards of Hialeah Park today announced they have found evidence that a horse trained by Nat Ray had been "stimulated" and that Ray and the horses he trains—Heron, Stealingaway and Kiltamond—had been ruled off the track.

The case has been referred to the Florida racing commission for further action.

Kiltamond was examined after the first race last Thursday, in which he finished third, and the chemists reported he had been "doped."

RECORD SQUAD GOES TO WORK FOR BULLDOGS

Outside Help Called in To Outfit Seventy-Six Candidates.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 29.—Seventy-six men, the largest number of candidates ever to don football uniforms at Georgia, reported to Coach Harry Mehre for the initial practice of spring football training on Wednesday at Sanford field this afternoon.

There were so many candidates clustered around the gym waiting for uniforms that Sergeant Elmer Grummon, who has charge of equipment, had to call in outside help in order to get the uniforms issued in time for practice. Every man who reported received a uniform, including shoes, football pants and bright red jerseys.

Nine members of last year's varsity squad failed to report today. Three of them have been excused from the sessions and the others probably had late afternoon class. Buck Chapman, Yank Ludwig and Frank Johnson will not take part in spring practice, the first two because they're recuperating from leg injuries suffered last fall.

JOHNSON EXCUSED. Johnson is excused because he's on the varsity basketball team. Even he may be asked to report for a short time later on, since Coach Mehre is thinking of changing him from guard to tackle.

Those reporting for the first workout included 17 ends, 11 tackles, 16 guards, 7 centers, and 25 backs. The candidates varied in football experience from four-string players on last fall's freshman team to Cy Grant, Jack Griffith, Charley Turbeyville and other members of the 1933 varsity team.

The 76 candidates received a brisk 45-minute workout while a bitterly cold wind swept down through the stadium, a few minutes of running down under punts followed by practice of the Notre Dame shift by the backs, charging by the linemen. A few wind sprints topped off the session.

Practice will be held every day from 4 to 5:30. Coach Mehre told the squad in outlining his plans before the workout. The workouts will not be longer than an hour and a half. Spring practice will continue indefinitely.

Blocking and tackling, the basic fundamentals of football, will be given the boys about Friday. Beginning this they will don shoulder and hip pads and spend a great deal of time blocking and tackling the Mehre tackling dummy, now widely used by American college teams.

FIRST SCRIMMAGE. The first scrimmage will probably be held at the end of the second week of practice. The Bulldogs will get two scrimmages a week.

Harry Mehre began his eleventh season as a member of the Georgia coaching staff with today's practice. The Bulldog head coach came to Athens for spring practice in 1924. He was line coach then, but since 1928 he has been directing genius of Georgia's football teams.

"Gosh," said Coach Mehre as he watched Vernon (Catfish) Smith showing his 17 end candidates how to shift. "When I started coaching the Georgia line we only had about 17 linemen on the whole squad. Now we've 17 candidates for one position—and they look pretty good, too."

Georgia has won a long way in football since 1924 and a very great part of the credit must go to the young Notre Dame graduate who stepped off a Seaboard train 10 years ago and went right down to coach his first Georgia team.

A Little Soft Music, Professor, For The Home Town Boy of Verona

Mute the violins, professor, and turn the lights down low, and let the music be soft.

Here comes a yarn about the little country boy who never got to go to school because he had to support his mother and crippled sister; who didn't booze and run around nights, who worked hard and at the age of 22 was able to buy his mother a fine home, provide for his sister and become the big man in his home town.

He rattles here tonight, the kid I am referring to; Jim Browning, of Verona, Mo.

Verona is a wide place in the road; population 450. And Jim Browning, who never studied Caesar and his Gallic commentaries, nevertheless has always had that philosophy of the old Roman. It was Caesar who said he'd rather be first in a little Iberian village than second in Rome.

And Jim Browning has always stuck by his home town of Verona. He likes it. He used to register from there. Even the hotels of the big cities of Australia used to see "Jim Browning, Verona, Mo., U. S. A."

He's a rough, tough lad in the ring and one of the better grapplers. His voice is soft with a Missouri drawl. He's the sort that makes friends and keeps them.

He hasn't such a polished exterior. But inside he's on the square. He'll always give you a square rattler. It's an old Verona habit.

WHEN HE WAS 12 YEARS OLD. When he was 12 years old he was left with the support of his mother and sister.

He was 12 years old but he weighed 200 pounds and was six feet, two inches tall.

He swore he was 17 and got a job learning the business of braking and firing on a railroad. He wrestled on the side in clubs and gymnasiums.

When he was 16 years old he was giving his mother $100 per month.

A few years later he bought the land and built one of the finest farm homes in Missouri; stocked it with cattle, hired the hands and started his mother off as head of a real farm.

When he isn't wrestling he goes back there and stays. Several times he has wrestled in his home town, bringing in a wrestler from St. Louis and giving the proceeds to charity, his home town charity.

Everybody in Verona knows Jim Browning. When he went to Australia his postcards to the drug store and the general store folks at Verona were weekly features. Getting a card from a Verona boy in Australia was something.

When Jim Browning was established as the world's champion by the N. Y. U. state association (Jim London having refused a match there) Verona celebrated.

He's first in the little Missouri village.

HE WAS ALWAYS SPECTACULAR. He was always spectacular. I recall him when he was 18 years old. He was spectacular then but a bit crude. He's learned a lot. He's really a great wrestler.

Matchmakers like to advertise grudge matches. Most of the "grudges" are phoney. This one, between Daviscount and Browning, happens to be real.

Years ago Daviscount, seeing the kid was a comer, tried to buy his contract and manage him to a championship. Browning refused to be managed by Daviscount and it began a feud which has been real across a number of years.

They speak and all that. But when they get in the ring they level.

I recall a fight, with thin gloves, in which Daviscount knocked out six of Browning's teeth and Browning removed three of Daviscount's. Their faces were cut to ribbons.

One doesn't do that just to make the show look good. Jim Browning went in there to get the money. And he has. He has taken care of his mother and sister; has been successful.

Georgia Plans Fish, Game Aid

Georgia citizens who cite the work that Pennsylvania has done in her game department often ask why Georgia doesn't adopt the famous "Pennsylvania plan" of game management. The answer is just the state hasn't the means. It takes money to operate on a large scale, and Georgia simply cannot get that far on what it has to work with. Pennsylvania spends more money each year on propagation work alone than the entire annual income of the Georgia department of game and fish.

There are certain things, however, that Georgia can do under a somewhat different plan, which does not involve great expenditures. These things are under consideration, and as soon as the state knows how far it can go, then the work will start. Just bear in mind the fact that Georgia is going to do everything it can for the game and fish, and that your suggestions and criticisms are welcome.

Preston, a recent benedict, by the way, may come in handy here since he can play guard or center. He may alternate at center and guard, in fact, although he is listed as a center candidate.

Coach Alexander feels better about the quarterback replacements this year. Young Lawrence Hays, who is a triple-threat man, and "Fug" Boyd, who gets another trial there, should make a pair of excellent aids to little Shorty Roberts, who, like Jack Phillips, had to shoulder a lot last year.

The punting also will be improved since Hays can kick and Johnny Ferguson, of Albany, Ga.; Sun Dial Martin and Fug Boyd, will be groomed more distance and accuracy this spring. Jerry Peterson should be a good halfback this year.

This morning, Coach Alexander will leave for New York's icy temperatures (our own are icy enough) to attend, a big alumni meeting and get-together of Techmen in New York city. Dr. M. L. Brittain and L. W. (Chip) Robert also will attend this affair.

Mr. Alexander returns the last of the week and hopes to find the weather warmer so that he can launch the spring football practice on Monday.

'Alex' Departs For New York Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, will leave Atlanta this morning for New York city, where he will attend a meeting of the Georgia Tech alumni on Wednesday, January 31.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, L. W. (Chip) Robert, assistant secretary of the treasury, and other prominent Tech men also will be present. John W. Heisman, former Tech coach, and many friends of the school in New York will attend the meeting.

Coach Alexander plans to return the latter part of the week to get ready for spring football work, which begins on Monday.

TACKLE CHANGE ADDS STRENGTH TO FRONT WALL

'Pee Wee' Takes Post on Left Side, Eubanks to Right Tackle.

By Jimmy Jones.

Clyde (Pee Wee) Williams, the sleek, swart Arkansas boy who has played such a rugged, consistent brand of football at right tackle for Georgia Tech in the last two varsity campaigns, will be seen in a new sector of the jacket line next season.

Following his announcement of two important changes in his playing personnel in Sunday's papers, Coach William Alexander, the Tech coach, yesterday disclosed a recent decision to shift Williams to the left tackle position in spring training and moving "Lefty" Eubanks, who was tried at left tackle last season, over to the right tackle niche.

ADDS STRENGTH. The move, Coach Alexander explained, was inspired by the fact that most of the opposition's power plays are run to the right or against the left side of the defensive line and that Williams, with his experience and ability to "take it" for 60 minutes will strengthen that wing considerably.

Coach Alexander is likewise confident that a shoulder operation performed on Eubanks since the close of last season and now practically healed will enable the Macon youth to step into the right tackle position and play it acceptably. At any rate, he will be tried out there in spring training and Clyde Williams will be a shot at the left tackle berth.

Williams, incidentally, now weighs a cool 217 pounds. He will be a better tackle than ever in this, his last year of campaigning at the Flats, the Tech coaches think. And he will check up that hole in the left side of the line that was left vacant when Bob Tharpe, the blond typhoon from Moultrie, stepped out of it for good after the Duke game.

A FEW POUNDS. Williams' normal playing weight is about 210, so he won't have many pounds to lose at that.

"Williams has been a 60-minute player for us and I am of the opinion that he will be more valuable as a left tackle than he was at right, which is plenty valuable," Coach Alexander said with a smile. He is very fond of Williams, both as a player and as a boy, for there are fewer better balanced athletes, mentally and physically, than the husky tackle from Little Rock.

Coach Alexander thinks Eubanks will do all right at right tackle. In fact he is counting on this, for a lot depends upon him.

"I would say that this is our main experiment in spring training right now, along with the end positions," Coach Alexander stated.

SEEK PHILLIPS' SUB. The coach, who will start his fifth season as director of Georgia Tech football team this year, also hopes to develop a first-class replacement for Jack Phillips at fullback.

The ends and the reserve fullback will get plenty of his attention and that of his assistant coaches in the five weeks of spring football that starts next Monday.

A fullback who is called upon to do what Phillips does, such as backing the line, passing and kicking, needs a man to "rest him" and if we can find one from the sophomores coming up, like Beard and McKay, Phillips will be an even better fullback next fall," Coach Alex stated.

Norris Dean, who understudied Phillips, has been shifted back to an end position.

Alex had figured on Tom Peeler for a fullback replacement last year, but he dropped out of school. He had to use Dean, an ex-lineman, as a substitute.

Fitzsimmons and Lindsay are two hefty young tackles who may come through as excellent replacements.

ENDS ARE PROBLEM. Coach Alex hopes to glean from a list of 10 end candidates, two starters to replace Sloan and Spradling and at least two good replacements for each of the flanks. He has Hoot Gibson, who earned his letter last year; Preston Thompson and Morris Katz, who got in a few games, and a highly promising sophomore in Buttz Boulware, former G. M. A. all-around athlete, young "Twenty Per Cent" Davis, with an illustrious background, is another candidate.

Hoot Gibson, who gained great experience last year, has a fine chance to become a regular starter.

While he considers his guards well taken care of by the Wilcoxes, John and Dave, both of whom will be back, and his center candidates, Shaw, Preston and Smith, very capable, Coach Alex would like to develop some good reserves there.

Preston, a recent benedict, by the way, may come in handy here since he can play guard or center. He may alternate at center and guard, in fact, although he is listed as a center candidate.

Baer Laughs at Engagements, Except One With Carnera

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Max Baer, pugilistic playboy, appeared on the fashionable pool deck of a sun club here today with June Knight on one arm and Claire Windsor on the other.

Hints of a "triangle" were laughed off by the heavyweight challenger, who denied his much-rumored engagement to Miss Knight with the remark: "The only engagement I'm interested in just now is with Primo Carnera."

Miss Knight smiled and said "we're just good pals." After negotiating for a fight with Carnera, if the champion wins his forthcoming bout here with Tommy Loughran, Baer plans to leave for Hollywood. He said his next picture will be a co-starring vehicle with Mae West.

TRADE RUMORS FLYING THICK AS MEET NEARS

Yanks Head List of Proposed Changes at League Confab.

By Edward J. Neil.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Approach of the inter-league meetings next week, offering major league owners a final chance for a bit of bolstering here and there before spring training starts has shot new life into the trade rumor market.

The 1933 champions, the Giants in the National league and the Senators in the American league, seem certain to stand put on what they have, along with the Athletics, already ready for the winter party.

But aside from these six there isn't a club in either league that won't listen to reason, far apart as managers always are on a definition of the word.

The Yankees lead today with rumors of a trade with the Browns, strengthened by the fact that Louis B. Foulke, St. Louis president, spent the past week-end here.

The only logical reason for the visit seems to have been dickering with Ed Barrow, Yankee business manager.

WANT BLAHEOLDER.

The Yanks still are after George Blaeholder, right-handed pitcher, who has spent almost an entire major league career being sought by the New York management. In the Yankee side of the barter, which has been threatened all winter, the names of a couple of shortstops, Lory Lary and Frank Crosetti have been mentioned, along with Pitchers Red Ruffin and Duffin MacFadden. All are considered trading material in the Yankee quest for a reliable right-hander and an abled-bodied hitting outfielder to aid young Ben Chapman and the aging Babe Ruth.

Jimmy Wilson, new manager of the Phillies, has indicated he'll listen to offers for his big first baseman, Don Hurst, and more offers will be made for Cincinnati's Chief Hake, whether or not Larry McPhail wants to listen. The Red Sox have six abled-bodied left-handed pitchers, headed by Robert Moses Grove and Rube Walberg, who are not on the market, but some of the others offer the means whereby Boston's need for more punch in the infield can be satisfied.

PRICE TOO HIGH.

In the Cleveland Indians trade, the Yankees probably will get Earl Averill, whom they crave, but the price in players and cash is certain to be high. Joe Stripp, Brooklyn right-hander, is reported on the block, and the Braves, needing infield hitting strength to be dangerous this year, are interested in him, as well as Hurst of the Phillies.

With Brooklyn all stirred up over Bill Terry's insult, the Giants' manager naively asked recently if the Dodgers were still in the National league—almost anything may happen along the bank of the Ganges.

Bob Quinn, business manager of the club, was absent from his usual haunts today and he might have been talking to Bill McKeechie of the Braves. Boston could use several of the Dodgers, particularly First Baseman Sam Leslie, Second Baseman Tony Cucinello to replace Rabbit Maranville, or the first holdovers of the season, Hackenschmidt Wilson and Al Lopez, the Spanish catcher.

The man who traded all of these out of Brooklyn might just as well go along with them for his own safety, however, the temper of the Brooklyn faithful being what it is.

One fan, wishing to be of assistance, wrote Quinn suggesting a solution of the Brooklyn problems would be to send Leslie and a second-string catcher to Boston for Earl Averill and Ed Bradley, the one great outfielder, the other a star southpaw, a deal in which Manager McKeechie also would get sympathy.

The reliable Quinn contributed their quota of daily information to the general situation, announcing the signing for 1934 of Herman Bell, right-handed relief pitcher, and Fresno Thompson, infield replacement from Buffalo.

Wintry Winds Howl Over Living Grave of Former Athlete

In the center of the old fair street arena, Fair street and Delta place, across from the James L. Key golf course, wintry winds howl over the living grave of W. G. (Bill) Lewis, former O'Keefe Junior High athlete. Or night lights flicker in the cold wind and shed an eerie glow over the scene, a former burial ground. By day the wind swirls dust over the living grave.

Bill Lewis was buried Saturday at 6:30 of his own volition. He is not tired of it all but is seeking to establish a new record. The record for being buried alive was held by a New York man, is 30 days. Bill Lewis plans to stay in the casket, eight feet underground, for 35 days. In other words he will spend the month of February under the sod.

GRAVE LIGHTED.

A light wire has been strung down to the casket. A small shaft connecting the grave enables Lewis to get air and spectators to see and talk with him.

Food and drink are lowered down the shaft.

KIRKWOOD'S ANGLE.

Joe Kirkwood was discussing the golf swing, stars, dubs, teachers and trick shots.

Then he swung to the instructive side of the game. "The first move a good teacher should make," he said, "is to give his pupil ease, comfort, and get him relaxed. Until he can do this no instructor is going to make a headway. This is the foundation of golf. You'd be surprised to know how many fine golfers I have seen jump from 70 to 82 in a tournament just because they tightened up. If a crack golfer with a fine swing can add 12 strokes to his score in one round, what must happen to the average player who is nearly always tightened up? That isn't hard to figure out."

"How are you going to do this little thing?" I asked.

"The golfer or the pupil must help more than he does," Kirkwood said. "He must think more in terms of ease and comfort. If he ever stopped to think he ought to know by now that he can't swing a golf club freely and smoothly and naturally by addressing the ball with legs, arms and body tied in knots. If he stopped to think and reason a little, he wouldn't need an instructor to tell him that."

"Then, why do first class pros, smart golfers, tighten up in the pinch-es and so often blow?" I asked.

Joe offered his famous Australian smile. "I guess we all do," he said. "Even Bobby Jones lost six strokes to El Espinoza in the last six holes at Winged Foot. Could you imagine anybody picking up six strokes in six holes on Bobby Jones? But an open championship is something different. The prize stake—the rushing galleries—the mental and physical strain—I guess we are all human—even golfers."

Kirkwood is right about the impregnable barrier every golfer puts in front of himself, before he starts his swing.

He doesn't give himself a chance to swing.

Here's the main idea—only the hands and fingers touch the club—only the clubhead touches the ball.

Why not concentrate on using the hands and fingers to swing the club-head, and keep every other part of the body relaxed enough to work with the clubhead—the hands swinging the clubhead.

Dear Max:

I don't think I have to tell you that I have always liked your type of slam-bang fighting. I was with you the morning Dempsey gave you a boxing lesson in his hotel suite after your first Loughran fight. We've played golf together and tried to talk each other out of four-foot putts without getting sore. I've been with you a lot of stuff, including games, games, and the punch—what are not unimportant. I thought you'd beat Max Schmeling, and I thought you'd beat Cerny. Now I'm wondering, I can't see how a young fellow with the chance to walk in the path of Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Dempsey, Tunney and other great men could suddenly go in for maseara, night clubs, dancing acts, talem powder and such details when he has a man's job to face. No young fighter ever had such a chance—with a foreign entry holding the crown that once belonged to old John L. and Gentleman Jim. If you are thinking of going—that's where it lies for you—in the ring.

If you are interested only in money—the same bet goes.

If Carnera whips you, you'll be a dub. And you can't duck him now. And the time to start is today—in the coming week. You've got a lot of ground. Too much ground for safety. You can't afford to lose any more. You are good—but not that good. You're a good business man, you're not mine. You'll find how wrong you are if Carnera happens to tag you on the chin and the referee counts ten. GRANTLAND RICE.

COMING STORM WINS IN TRIALS

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Performing like the champion that he is, The Coming Storm, pointer owned by Elio M. Fleischman, of New York, was named first honors today in the 10th annual Georgia-Florida field trials.

Despite the cold which made hunting a little difficult, the pointer picked his way through the brush and stubble to give a masterful exhibition before the large gallery of nobles who gathered from nearby estates for the event.

C. V. Whitney's pointer, Chester, won second prize and third honors went to Belle, pointer bitch belonging to L. S. Thompson, of Red Bank, N. J. Walter C. Teagle of New York was elected president of the Georgia-Florida Field Trial Club for the coming year and George F. Baker of New York was named vice president.

The trials were held at Sunny Hill plantation, owned by Colonel L. S. Thompson, near here.

The above field trials will begin Thursday with the running of the Southern amateur. This feature will be followed by the National amateur and the Continental field trials.

Loading sportsmen and handlers will attend with nationally-famous dogs.

REGULAR BURIAL.

Large crowds have been out to see the sight. It is strictly on the up-and-up. There he is, buried in the cold, cold ground, eight feet down from the living grave, in case.

After Lewis breaks the record he intends to climb the First National bank building. He has been an athlete and steeplejack.

CHICAGO CUBS SEEK QUALITY IN REBUILDING

Manager Grimm Takes Small Squad for Spring Training.

By George Kirksey.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(UP)—The Chicago Cubs are banking on quality, not quantity in rebuilding their forces for the 1934 National league pennant drive.

The Cubs' official roster, released today, shows only 28 players on the squad which will leave for Catalina Island March 1.

Of this group, Manager Charley Grimm will have to weed out only three players to get inside the mid-summer player limit of 28.

There are nine pitchers, five catchers, seven infielders and five outfielders listed. The only experimenting the Cubs will do is with three rookie catchers, Walter Gobel from the Little Rock Southern league club, Gordon Phelps from the Albany International league club and William Zeeb, a Kansas City semi-pro player.

Two of these rookie catchers probably will go back to the minors for future development, inasmuch as Gabby Hartnett and Benny Tate, both veterans, are expected to do most of the receiving. Tate, formerly with the Red Sox and White Sox, was bought from Montreal, where he hit .335 last year.

CUBS REBUILD.

Since the Cubs won the pennant in 1932 there has been a gradual reformation going on until only 12 members of that team remain. They are Pitchers Guy Bush, Pat Malone, Charles Root, Bud Tinning and Lon Warney. Catcher Hartnett, infielders Grimm, Billy Herman, Jurgens and English and outfielders Cuyler and Stephenson.

The Cubs have made seven important additions since the close of last season. The most important, of course, is Charles (Chuck) Klein, National league batting champion, who was obtained from the Phillies.

The other six are prize minor leaguers, all from Class AA competition. This group includes Dick Ward, who won 15 games and lost 13 for the Los Angeles Pacific coast league club last season; Bill Lee, who won 21 games and lost 9 for the Colorado American association club; Roy Joiner, who won 22 games and lost 14 for the Oakland Pacific Coast league club; second baseman for the San Francisco Pacific Coast league club, and George Stainback, outfielder, who led .335 for the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league club.

GOOD PITCHERS.

The Cubs' pitching staff promises to be one of the strongest in the league. The great men of the past are gone, but the only southpaw on the squad, is the Cubs' big man, who won't be in the line-up for most of his bouts, but he always gets into the line-up when he's risking the title. Knight holds a decision over Maxie, but it was scored in a non-title affair.

Reasons for the apparent interest in the light-heavy title bout are easy to find. Miami is crowded this season with people vacationing, and they are spending well. Champions seldom show in this sector, and the local fans are going to see one as a matter of curiosity. Possibly the greatest reason, is that Knight has in the past, succeeded the late Willie Stripling as the southern boxing idol. His home in Cairo, Ga., not far from Stripling's native Miami.

MANY SEE JOE VICTOR.

For all of Rosenbloom's string of successes when defending his title, there are many boxing men here who believe he'll hold it for the last time when he steps through the ropes to go in against the left-handed Georgia cracker. This is largely due to Knight's recent record of seven victories in his last seven starts. Among the victims were Joe Banovic, Bob Godwin (twice) and Lon Socza.

Rosenbloom's purse will be the biggest he has seen in a long time. He's been guaranteed $15,000. Knight is working on a percentage of what's left after Rosey takes his cut.

No! No! No! It Isn't the NRA Eagle

Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, right, killed this giant eagle, which had been carrying off the little pigs and the game at Dover Hall, near Brunswick, while hunting last week. The gentleman at the left is Hugh Casey, rookie pitcher for the Crackers who was with Charlotte last year. The eagle had a wing-spread of six feet. Robinson is president of the Cracker baseball club. Many Expect Joe Knight To Win

MIAMI, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Maxie Rosenbloom and Joe Knight are likely to perform before a $30,000 house when they meet for the world's light-heavyweight title in Madison Square Garden arena here Thursday night.

Already the fight has taken in more than $10,000 at the box office, and Garden officials predict a gross of $20,000 to $25,000.

Francis Albertini, chief of the Garden's publicity staff, who has been in command for the past fortnight, is joined today by Colonel John Reed Kilpatrick, Garden president, who flew down from New York.

COLONEL PLEASED.

Colonel Kilpatrick visited both training camps and came away enthusiastic over their apparent condition.

"If they don't put up a good fight it won't be because they're not ready to go," he said. "I was particularly impressed with Rosenbloom's appearance."

Rosenbloom, incidentally, has trained faithfully for the Knight bout, just as he always does when the title is placed on the line. Rosenbloom may use night clubs as training sites for most of his bouts, but he always gets into the line-up when he's risking the title. Knight holds a decision over Maxie, but it was scored in a non-title affair.

Reasons for the apparent interest in the light-heavy title bout are easy to find. Miami is crowded this season with people vacationing, and they are spending well. Champions seldom show in this sector, and the local fans are going to see one as a matter of curiosity. Possibly the greatest reason, is that Knight has in the past, succeeded the late Willie Stripling as the southern boxing idol. His home in Cairo, Ga., not far from Stripling's native Miami.

MANY SEE JOE VICTOR.

For all of Rosenbloom's string of successes when defending his title, there are many boxing men here who believe he'll hold it for the last time when he steps through the ropes to go in against the left-handed Georgia cracker. This is largely due to Knight's recent record of seven victories in his last seven starts. Among the victims were Joe Banovic, Bob Godwin (twice) and Lon Socza.

Rosenbloom's purse will be the biggest he has seen in a long time. He's been guaranteed $15,000. Knight is working on a percentage of what's left after Rosey takes his cut.

Walker, Godwin Indian Is Beaten Slug It Out To Draw

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, looking like the champion he was only in flashes, fought to a draw with Bob Godwin, Adel, Ga., in the 10-round main event of the weekly fight card at the Dixie arena here tonight.

In contrast to recent weeks at the arena, notably when Light-heavyweight Champion Maxie Rosenbloom was fighting, there was no argument over the decision.

Godwin, aggressive, looked good against former champion Mickey Walker, who was the victor, but Mickey was punching on his elbows and gloves.

DENTISTS LOSE.

CENTERVILLE, Ga., Jan. 29.—Centerville Athletic Club defeated the Atlanta Southern Dental Five, 34 to 20, here. Freeman and Knight were outstanding for the winners, while Sargent played best for the losers.

I'd like to see a Georgian take the light-heavyweight championship of the world—to add to the world's title which the late Deacon Flowers brought the state. But I'm most fearful of Maxie Rosenbloom, who will be fighting a room-and-board fight.

FOOTSORE AND WEARY.

Footsore and weary, with a nice crop of blisters on each heel and set of toes, this reporter is back from Dover Hall and a visit with Wilbert Robinson, Cracker president.

The record included getting lost in the swamps, missing out on wild turkeys and ducks.

The Constitution sports staff doesn't harm the wild life of our state. Mr. Jimmy Jones has shot 40 times, over two seasons, at herds of deer and missed them all, in fact.

And the turkeys and the ducks laugh derisively at your old partner.

In fact, when The Constitution staff arrives at Dover Hall for a hunt the cooks start sending to Brunswick for meat. They know the hunters will supply nothing but groans and alibis.

SOUTH GEORGIA FIGHTER GIVEN EDGE OVER MAX

Added Speed and Relaxation Aid Him in Advance of Battle.

By Jack Troy.

The rise of 24-year-old Joe Knight, Cairo (Ga.) southpaw, who goes out under the Florida moon Thursday night at Miami to battle Maxie Rosenbloom for the light-heavyweight championship of the world, has been traced to a level head, a gifted left hand and a former manager who was conscientious to a fault.

Joe Knight can thank his ex-manager for the fact that he will go into the Madison Square Garden ring against Rosenbloom unmarked by the falling fists of his five years of strenuous ring campaigning.

Vester Duckworth, an Atlanta man, handled Joe from the start of his career. In fact, Duckworth started Joe on a brilliant career and counseled him in all his big fights for four years.

GREAT DEFENSE.

Joe never was asked to fight when he wasn't in condition. And first of all he was taught an infallible defense. Outside of his left hand, he always had a better defense than offense. Until now, it so happened that now he has both.

You can search the records and find that Joe Knight has not been out of the receiving end of a knockout, although he has left-handed out no small number. He has rarely been felled.

For instance, he kayped Bob Godwin twice, the last one earning him the titular chance. He stopped Yale Okun in 1931 to gain national prominence. And he has flattened such other good men as George Courtney, Bobby Evans, Eric Lawson, Cyclone Smith, Don Petrin and Terry Roberts. He scored 85 kayoes in 124 fights.

Like a bulldog, he holds down George Nichols, Charley Belanger, Pietro Corri, Willie Oster, Red Barry, Battling Bozo, Tony Canella, Cowboy Owen Phelps, Nattie Brown, Lou Scouza, Joe Banovic and many other good light-heavies and heavyweights, including Maxie Rosenbloom, present champion.

STACK UP SOME.

Although splendidly proportioned—there is little difference in the measurements of Knight and Rosenbloom—Joe does not have the appearance of a fighter who has come up and down the land left-tapping leading fighters on various parts of their anatomy.

As a model to induce youngsters to purchase Joe Blow's muscle builder. Not only does Knight not have the trademarks of a pugilist, like the late W. C. Stripling, he was always above the rank and file of the fight game.

This is a credit to Duckworth, his former manager, who has kept Joe away from the inevitable entanglements of most fighters.

And so finally Joe married a beautiful girl, Beatrice, many years his junior. He will be married seven months on Thursday night.

This writer followed Joe Knight in all his early fights and many of the later ones, including the fight with Rosenbloom in which he won the decision.

HURTS MAXIE.

Perhaps Rosenbloom didn't have on his Sunday fighting clothes. But the fact remains that on March 18, 1932, at Daytona Beach, Knight gave Rosenbloom a fit, so to speak. He blasted the champion with lefts that hurt. And won the decision.

In the last year, under the management of E. H. Griffith, who bought him a contract from Duckworth, Knight has speeded up. He has faster footwork and has been prone to relax. He had been tense and thus experienced a tendency to tire toward the end of long fights.

Knight has had the best of sparring partners for the forthcoming title shot. He has worked out with little Jimmy Dundee, who spent an entire year with him, and he has been cutting the heavier sparring partners all over the ring. And occasionally laying them low with left-handed dynamite encaesed in large training gloves.

Joe Knight is the favorite. He will enter the ring the choice of the ring-siders.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

Champion Maxie Rosenbloom gets the big money for the fight—$15,000. But the great opportunity is Joe Knight's. He would prove a very acrobatic champion with a few more years or so he would be ready for the heavyweights.
